

Board Removed For Third Time THREAT TO BREAK UP ENTENTE

Election Commission Reinstated Twice By City Council at Sensational and Epochal All-Night Session

First Reinstatement Comes at 3.30 A. M. After Seven Hours of Hectic Debate and Hearing—Mayor Immediately Removes Board Again and Refuses to File New Charges Simultaneously—Council Votes Second Reinstatement Two Hours Later—Adjournment Taken Just Before Dawn Today

At a special city council meeting called last night, but which did not adjourn until the long hand on the clock pointed to seven minutes before five this morning, the deposed board of election commissioners was twice reinstated. At 3.35 o'clock this morning the council voted to reinstate the commission, when it judged that body not guilty of the charges preferred against it by Mayor George H. Brown.

Less than a minute after the council had taken its action, the city messenger served upon the reinstated members notice that the mayor had once more removed them. The mayor said his charges for the second removal would be filed with the city clerk.

This action threw the council and 400 or more spectators into the greatest of excitement, for previous to the first reinstating action a battle, which lasted for seven hours, had been waged between the mayor, the city solicitor and counsel for the deposed members.

While Attorney Albert S. Howard, counsel for the deposed board, and several members of the council expressed the belief that the latest action taken was invalid, they decided to leave nothing undone and after two more hours of deliberation the council once again reinstated the commission.

Following this action, the election commissioners filed with the city clerk a statement denying the required number of signatures to place Plan B upon the ballot had been certified by them. The council unanimously voted to instruct the city clerk to notify the secretary of state that the commission had been twice reinstated, that the council did not sustain any removal charges.

At this point the council adjourned for seven hours, but which did not adjourn until the long hand on the clock pointed to seven minutes before five this morning, the deposed board of election commissioners was twice reinstated.

QUITS THE TEXTILE SCHOOL FOR NAVY

Harry A. Weldon, a student in the Lowell Textile school, has severed his connection with that institution and enlisted in "The School of the Nation," Uncle Sam's navy. Weldon came to this city from Detroit, Mich., and registered in the course of textile engineering at the Moody street school, but he evidently became "navy blue" and this morning, presented himself to the local recruiting officer in the Fairbank building. He will enroll in the yeoman branch of the service.

COMMISSION IS REMOVED AGAIN

Election Commissioners Fired for Third Time by Mayor Brown

Formal Application for Another Hearing Filed by the Commission

Municipal Movies—"On Again, Off Again, Gone Again, Finnegan"

Now chapters are being added so rapidly to that prince of best sellers, "Will Plan B Charter Go On the Ballot?" that it is difficult to keep one's reading up to date.

Another was written today when Mayor George H. Brown, for the third time, removed the original board of election commissioners—Messrs. McGowan, Alford, Braden and Maguire—and with the city clerk his reasons therefor as "Neglect of Duty."

Through its attorney, Albert S. Howard, formal application for another public hearing, before the city council, was filed by the commission with the city clerk at noon today.

"I do not expect to hear anything from it," said Mr. Howard. "It is just an anchor to windward, a stop-gap, for the election commission has been advised by me that it is a legally reinstated commission in fact and to hold the fort."

Asked whether he recognized the validity of either the second or third removals by the mayor, the attorney answered: "Not for one minute, not for one minute."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 7, 10.4 a. m. (By the Associated Press).—The principal hope of saving the armistice conference at Mudania from failure rested today with France, as the situation appeared here in Constantinople.

The allied diplomats were hoping that in the interest of peace, the French general at the conference would receive instructions from Paris enabling the allies to present a united front.

French diplomats here pointed out that the failure of the Mudania conference would probably be followed immediately by the withdrawal of the British Rhine army from the German frontier, owing to the necessities of the Near Eastern situation.

POLO GROUNDS, N. Y., Oct. 7 (by the Associated Press).—Musk and his lily cupped in the dark hollows of the polo grounds this afternoon when the Yankees met the Giants in the fourth game of the world series while old man gloom sat in the clubhouse of the Yankees, who were feeling under two blows from the aggressive National league champions.

The McGraw men believe that Thursday's tie game will be the nearest the Yankees will come to smelling a victory in this embroilment.

"We have got the Yankees on the dead run," said Heinie Groh, midge third sacker of the Giants, and exponent of the bottle bat, "and we will keep them on the run. The Yankees were supposed to have a five-star switching staff, but I have not seen it yet."

A slantless mist closed in during the day, dampened the playing field, making prospects of a contest dubious and uncertain. The weather man took a slant to the east and figured that the ocean breeze would bring showers before nightfall, which came in puffs from the east, bringing with it an intermittent drizzle.

Henry Fabian, groundskeeper, had the base paths, pitcher's and batter's box blanketed under heavy canvases. The outer gardens were in need of rain and the drizzle served only to ally the dusty top soil.

The crowd came early and the wet weather did not seem to rust the edge of its enthusiasm. Spectators placed newspapers upon the wet chairs and watched the threatening clouds.

Manager Huggins figured on Carl Mays to subdue the Giants with his submarine ball.

"Mays can pitch good enough ball to win," said Huggins, "but our fellows have not seemed to bat behind him this year. Still, they don't appear to be batting behind any of our pitchers just now."

Some of the Yankees wanted to see Joe Bush pitch today. They said they had been lucky behind "Bullet Joe" all season, and his fast ball was new to them for a dark day.

John McGraw, riding high and pretty with two victories in the old ball game, could afford to gamble. He thought he would start McQuillan this afternoon if he was right but some of the Giants said he might uncover Neph, his star southpaw.

The drizzle turned to rain shortly before 1 o'clock and the crowd in the bleachers raised their umbrellas, while others sat beneath outspread newspapers which they held over their heads. Only the brass band piped its merriest tunes to dispel the gloom of the cold, pitchy day.

The groundskeepers had removed the canvas mats from the base paths and near one o'clock the Yankees came upon the field, sliding high and fast. The bleachers were nearly filled an hour before game time. The upper reserved stands showed a few vacant seats.

The Yankees went at their batting practice, with vim. Llewellyn shot up some looping curves and some fast ones for the home folks to try out their batting eyes, which had apparently failed them during the series. Carl Mays, wrapped in a heavy sweater, took part in the practice.

Demands Surrender of Liquor on Ships

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Masters of shipping-board vessels were ordered today by Chairman Lasker, by direction of the president and in accordance with Attorney-General Daugherty's liquor opinion, to remove and surrender to treasury department officials all intoxicating liquors aboard such ships. The order which applies to government ships operated by the board and under charter to private concerns, became effective immediately with respect to vessels in American ports and will be made effective on those at sea and in foreign ports upon their arrival at American ports.

LOWELL MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Robert Busby of 25 Wamselt street, this city, was almost instantly killed and his two companions, Henry Underwood of 30 Bourne street and Herbert Carter of 513 Lawrence street, both of this city, were injured last evening, when their automobile and a machine operated by Archie Baribeau, of 120 Cabot street collided on the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard in Methuen. Baribeau and Henry St. Martin of Tremont street, Lowell, who were riding together, escaped without injuries. Both machines were badly damaged.

After the accident Busby and his companions were rushed to the Lawrence General hospital, where Busby died about ten minutes later. It was reported today that Underwood is suffering from injuries to his face, hands and legs, while Carter's injuries consist of a scalp laceration and abrasions about the shoulders and legs. Their condition is not considered serious.

FINED $150 FOR ILLEGAL KEEPING OF LIQUOR

In this morning's session of the district court, Jacob Luz, who was charged with illegal keeping, changed his plea to guilty and was fined $150. Jacob was the second member of the Luz family to appear in court on a liquor charge and Judge Knight warned him that if any other member of the family was brought in on this charge he would receive direct sentence to jail.

Luz was arrested on Sept. 15 at his home on Northham street where the officers found a subterranean cellar where the outlaw liquor was being manufactured. This underground cellar was heavily barricaded with walls and doors of solid cement and it was necessary for the officers to hack their way in with crowbars and axes. Upon the entrance they found a large sized still in operation, several barrels of rum and a quantity of moonshine. In a shack behind the dwelling house the office also found several barrels of liquor buried in the ground. Luz was tending the still at the time of the raid and was taken to the police station where he was booked on the charge of illegal keeping.

As far as could be learned, there were four men in the car and in some way the driver lost control of the machine, which swerved on to the sidewalk into the railing. The front wheels of the auto dropped over the side of the bridge, but the heavy machine was held back by the rear wheels, which became caught in the fence. The automobile was recently registered, but the identity of the owner cannot be established at present because the revised list of registrations has not yet been published.

Atty.-Gen. Daugherty's Decision Hits Foreign as Well as U. S. Vessels

Pres. Harding Orders Shipping Board Liners Made Dry at Once

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(By the Associated Press) All vessels, American and foreign owned, are prohibited from having liquor on board in American territorial waters under an interpretation of the prohibition amendment and the enforcement act handed down yesterday by the department of justice. Moreover, the transportation or sale of intoxicants on American craft, wherever operated, was held to be forbidden.

BREAK IN RAILWAY CRASH

American territorial waters were construed to include those not only within the three-mile limit of continental United States, but also within the same limit of the Philippines, the Hawaiian Islands, Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Alaska. The law would not apply to the Panama Canal zone as that zone is specifically exempted by the statute itself.

So far as American ships are concerned, the sale or transportation of liquor will cease at once, or as soon as those vessels reach their home ports. In the case of foreign ships the decision will become operative as soon as the necessary regulations can be prepared and promulgated by the treasury department.

Court action looking to a final determination of the application of American dry laws to foreign ships entering American ports were foreseen by both Attorney General Daugherty and Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board.

Mr. Daugherty said he already had been advised that a case was about to be filed which would bring the issue to the supreme court.

Chairman Lasker was of the opinion that the first move of foreign lines would be to seek an injunction restraining the government from enforcing the law. He said it was reasonable to suppose that the courts would grant such an injunction with a result that foreign ships would continue to arrive with liquor on board until there was a final decision by the highest court. The attorney general said his department would co-operate in every effort to expedite a ruling by the supreme court.

Publication of the opinion of the department of justice followed a White House conference to which President Harding summoned Mr. Daugherty, Secretaries Hughes and Mellon and Chairman Lasker. Various phases of the situation were discussed, including the possible results of enforcement upon the international relations of the United States.

High administration officials explained that there was no course for the executive branch of the government except to enforce the law as interpreted by the legal department. The interpretations was based upon recent decisions of the supreme court in a case involving the authority of the United States to interfere with the transfer of a liquor cargo from one foreign ship to another in an American port.

In a divided opinion the court confirmed the authority of prohibition agents to prevent such a transfer and, in the view of the attorney general, went so far as to hold that the 18th amendment and the Volstead act repudiated a prior existing treaty with Great Britain.

Chairman Lasker predicted that enforcement of the law would operate to an immediate disadvantage of the American merchant marine and would make more necessary enactment of the ship subsidy bill if the American flag was to stay on the high seas. He believed the ruling would have great influence in congress when the subsidy bill was taken up.

An undoubted effect of enforcement, Mr. Lasker said, would be to hamper the board in its efforts to build up American shipping in the orient and South America. He expected Vancouver, B. C. to profit at the expense of Seattle and Portland, in the oriental trade and Montreal, in the expense of New York in the South American trade. Also he looked for Montreal to gain over New York in the trans-Atlantic trade.

Irrespective of the decision of the supreme court, the shipping board chairman said foreign ships would have an advantage over American lines.

As an illustration, he said that even if the court should hold that foreign ships might not bring liquor into American territorial waters, they could sell up to the three-mile limit on their inward voyage and dump overboard any remaining stocks.

In discussing the opinion, Mr. Lasker emphasized that he was viewing the situation as it existed and that he spoke neither as "wet" or as a dry.

Sale of liquor on shipping board vessels was based on the opinion of the general counsel of the board, who held that it did not contravene the prohibition laws. Opening of the ships' bars was ordered on a vote of the board, with Commissioner Frederick I. Thompson casting the only dissenting vote.

Orders for enforcement of prohibition laws, as construed by Mr. Daugherty, were issued by President Harding late yesterday. In a letter to Secretary Mellon, the president requested that due notice be given to the masters of all privately owned ships operating under the American flag, that regulations for the enforcement as to foreign ships be formulated and that such notice be given to the agents of foreign lines "touching American ports or docking therein as becomes the circumstances and commits us to the full enforcement of the law."

Writing to Mr. Lasker, the executive said the transportation and the service of intoxicating liquors on all ships, owned, operated or leased by the shipping board, "should be prohibited at once, and all transportation, either as cargo or ships stores must cease at once on ships at sea or in foreign ports immediately after docking in home ports."

"This will enable the disposal of ships' stores for the lawful purposes contemplated under the statutes," the letter added. "The secretary of the treasury will issue equivalent notice to private ships under American operation."

Quoting the supreme court to the effect that the intent of the national prohibition policy was to "stop the whole business" of trafficking in intoxicants, the attorney general said that scope of the statutes enacted to carry out that policy, undoubtedly must include all "territory subject to the jurisdiction" of the United States. Under such interpretation, he held, American ships, wherever they might be located, would come under the national laws.

TO CUT APPROPRIATIONS

Retrenchment Planned by Draught Voters — Police Raids Net $1000

The voters of Draught are going to face the music.

Leading citizens of the prosperous town of homes and farms close to Lowell say they are going to stop appropriating large sums of town money for the conduct of certain important departments that have shown no desire to retrench for a year or two.

More than one citizen is ready with the "first and only warning" and yet very little order or bitter criticism of the handling of town money and affairs in general this year is heard in Draught, no matter where you travel or to whom you talk. It is all the same; the money was appropriated, there was use for most of it, and no one really regrets the money that went for better roads and other improvements long desired and now obtained after the necessary outlays of town funds.

But Draught is going to retrench with a vengeance next year.

Draught voters plan to cut next season's road appropriations to the bone, if necessary, in order to shave down that terrible tax rate.

Less money will be spent in other departments as well, if present plans by the "Conservatives" go through. The "Liberals" have had the reins this year, so the "Conservatives" say. Money has been spent a little too liberally to suit some of those who hate to see a tax rate jump upward every year instead of taking a tumble once in a while. So the "Conservatives" are going to try and lower the mark on the tax rate thermometer. And they will have some job ahead of them, according to the "Liberals" claim, although neither of the clans of friendly townspeople say that they can find any money actually wasted this year, and therefore there is some consolation for the "Conservatives," who really admit that the town of Draught has got about all it could expect for the money used for various departmental works.

Police Expenses

Police work in the town of Draught this year has been less costly than last year, but more work has been performed by the police officials, according to the figures furnished The Sun today by a town authority, who knows where the money provided for conducting and supporting the police department has been spent.

Last year, 1921, was probably the liveliest in the history of Draught police department. The town of Draught, in the vicinity of the parks about Lake Mascopie. Owing to some friction in town official circles and charges of poor discipline in the cases of one or two "specials" whose work with the Draught police department had been short-lived, the results of the previous year's cleaning up of many sections and bringing offenders into court, was not notable, although the police department record was nothing to be ashamed of.

This year, however, under more active leadership and with some degree of real system, the town's new work and the Draught police department were able to start early and often, fair weather or foul, winter and summer, have been practically "cleaned up." This work has required considerable time this summer—also considerable money—but the returns have not been up to expectations. Chairman Bert A. Cluff is satisfied that the work of the police department this season has been excellent in almost every respect.

Other town officials agree with Mr. Cluff. And of course Henry C. Coburn, the veteran member of the Draught police department, agrees with everybody on that point, too.

And $1000 received by the town in police court fines this year is further proof, if any were necessary.

The changes in the police department personnel this year really amounted to something. When Mr. Cluff became chairman of the selectmen again he decided to put some system into the "P.D." and he couldn't find anyone who suited him any better than Henry Coburn, and he made him superintendent of police. The other two members of the board of selectmen are Samuel Pillsbury and George Parker.

The appropriations this year have not been overdrawn, and on more than a few schedules advisory officersholders will have substantial reports to offer to the townspeople at the annual meeting next spring.

Money For Roads

It is felt that the amount of money expended for Draught roads this year will not be exceeded in 1922, and that it will be even possible to cut down the appropriation lists for the coming year. Mr. Cluff is not the only town official who believes Draught could stand a decided slash from present figures covering road and bridge work and still keep them in good shape.

Other citizens say that $20,000 will about cover the cost of a new work and repairing of old roads, bridges, culverts, sidewalks, etc., and that it may be even higher than that. The $20,000 estimate is considered small when the amount of work already accomplished is tallied up.

The most extensive work, of course, has been finished, but town workmen headed by Supt. William Shanks, are still at work on the wind-up of that extensive piece of work over on Lakeview avenue, from Canby Corner toward the lake section.

The original appropriation for this work was only $2000, but all of that has been spent and it is predicted that $4000 will hardly cover the job when the totals are added up. However, it is work that the townspeople pretty generally approve of, and is going right along without a let-up.

Pleasant street has been finished, and no criticisms are heard on that piece of industry that gives Draught a handsome, well-built highway at a cost of but $4000 of actual town funds. Of course, $4000 came from the county and state in separate allotments, making the entire contract cost $8000. The piece from Hovey square to the bridge has been finished with good oil and macadam that answers all purposes required of it. One-half mile was all that could be done, but that has been a relief to travelers and other users of the highway at this point. The short stretch from Cutter's Corner is now being finished by workmen.

The great central highway that runs from Merrimack square to Fisher's Corner and beyond is receiving additional repairs this fall, the work just beginning a few days ago. Three horses and wagons and five men under Supt. Shanks' supervision are filling in wide stretches on the sides of the macadam to conform with the contour of the somewhat side-sloping roadway.

A good deal of gravel is used for this work of repairing and filling up holes and smoothing the sides of the road up to some appearance of shape to conform with the contour of the road.

The regravelling of the road shoulders now going on is to be done from the Marsh Hill territory to Bridge street and also from Fox avenue to the center of the town.

A large culvert had to be put in on the Marsh Hill road, and in front of the Johnson farm a long course of ordinary piping about a foot in diameter was laid and covered with gravel to allow an open roadway into the Johnson farm property from the Peeling Highway.

The meeting was carried to a normal conclusion without incident notwithstanding previous threats, anonymously communicated to the preacher that he would not be "permitted to speak."

Mr. Smith told his audience that "a certain element" did not wish him to hold his meetings.

Shortly after services were under way, two automobiles loaded with men, armed in the regular of the Ku Klux Klan arrived.

WAS FINED $100 FOR CARRYING PISTOL

Ralph H. Strauss was fined $100, the minimum fine, in district court this morning on the charge of carrying a pistol without a permit. As he was unable to pay the fine this morning he was remanded to the county jail at East Cambridge until he can do so. He was supposed to have received a check this week that would cover his fine but it has not arrived as yet. He will remain in jail until the check arrives.

According to the story told by a woman who lives on Tucker street, Strauss was in the habit of coming to her house to see her son. She did not desire him as a guest and told him to stay away. Later he called at the house and she told him to leave. He was then taken to the county jail at East Cambridge and he was supposed to have received a check this week that would cover his fine but it has not arrived as yet. He will remain in jail until the check arrives.

Commission Removed Again

deliberation, argument, declamation and debate, reinstated the original board after the vote was taken. The mayor summarily removed the commissioners again and the council check-mated by a second reinstatement.

After a few hours of sleep the mayor returned to his office, looked over the battle and looked at the council. He was a great believer in the third-time-is-a-charm adage and whang! out went the commission for the third occasion.

In announcing his action of removal, His Honor again temporarily appointed as a new commission, Messrs. O'Connell, O'Neil, O'Neil and Gouin. He said they will file a final certification with the secretary of state, attesting to an insufficient number of genuine signatures on the charter petition.

As far as can be learned the last hour for filing such certifications was at 5 o'clock. The secretary of the commonwealth, provided that the matter in question is one that must appear on the ballot for the November election.

At noon today, whatever communications are to be forwarded to the state house from the mayor's office or from the council, must be sent direct to the office of the attorney-general, for Mr. McKim, the secretary of state, has stated that this is the proper procedure.

The original board did not meet at city hall this morning and Hugh C. McKim, chairman, said he did not believe the secretary of state would accept the board's certification. Possession of the office again until Monday, Mr. McKim was in the office, however, but he was not in the office of the secretary of state.

The office of the secretary of state, as well as that of Attorney General J. Weston Allen, must be fairly choked with the well-known communications. The secretary has received several notices of certification, each one giving the lie to the other. First, there was a certification from the original board that the petition carried a sufficient number of genuine names to allow it to go on the ballot as a referendum question. Then came the first removal and the new board appointed forwarded a contrary certification. The city council voted Thursday night to accept the first board's certification and authorized the city clerk to certify the names. The city clerk did it all over again.

It is said that a brand new filing cabinet has been installed by the secretary of state, just to hold Lowell correspondence.

Out of all this turmoil into which the municipality has been plunged, the one question that really matters is not yet answered:

"Will Plan B go on the ballot?"

No one knows. Some say it will, some say it will not, but there is more or less unanimity in the belief that the city chapters in the serial will be written in Boston, either in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth, or in the rooms of the attorney general.

While the temporary board was in session, rechecking names from affidavits, it also conducted some routine business, among which was the approval of $2000 worth of monthly departmental bills. Whether the approving signatures of this de facto board will hold water is just one of several questions that must be decided later.

Another question that seems bound to arise, is who will be in charge of the registration sessions, scheduled to begin on Monday next.

Board Twice Reinstated

den, of the deposed commission, that Mayor Brown had come to him in his office on Sept. 25, the first night that the commission worked on the certification, asking that he do what he could to defeat the petition.

According to the testimony of Mr. Braden, the mayor used the following language: "Tom, do you know that this means my job? You haven't the time to take from your business and put it on this work? Go down at 11 o'clock tomorrow and work for an hour or two. Go down and do anything in your power to prevent this petition from going through; the hearing the mayor denied making any of these remarks but admitted that he had visited Mr. Braden's office. The council first took up routine matters but came to the principal business without much delay. When asked that a hearing was to be held, Solicitor Tierney requested he be given time to prepare his case. For a while it looked as if the hearing was going to be put over until today. When Councilor Gallagher was informed that the temporary commission had filed a statement with the secretary of state to the effect that the petition was fraudulent and that it had asked the secretary to withhold it from the ballot, a new angle developed. It was brought out that the time for making final disposition on the question was Dec. 7 at 12 o'clock. Under these conditions Mr. Gallagher moved that the hearing be held at once. Attorney Tierney requested a half hour to get his facts together. This was granted. The hearing was opened and was one continuous round of objections from counsel for both sides. The law was quoted on more than one occasion. Hugh C. McKim, the first witness, was on the stand nearly three hours. At one point early in the morning a recess was taken while a luncheon was served.

Attorney Albert S. Howard was very impatient on the manner in which the hearing was conducted, and bitter verbal clashes between him and Mr. Tierney were frequent. Mr. Braden's testimony brought forth storms of laughter and applause.

Before the case had gone very far Councilor Gallagher requested the temporary board be required to be present. Only one member could be found, or at least only one was noticeable. No questions were asked of him.

The case was completed at 2 o'clock. Attorney Howard made no argument and offered no defense, saying he believed his clients innocent of any guilt. Attorney Tierney used up the greater part of a half hour in summing up the case.

After he finished, the council unanimously voted the evidence was insufficient for removal. The board was reinstated and ousted again in a few seconds.

On motion of Councilor Sadler, the messenger was instructed to find the mayor and tell him the city council wanted his name charges filed at once and that an immediate hearing was to be given. The messenger reported back that he had informed the mayor, who asked, "What for?" and thereupon left the building.

The council then reinstated the board for a second time and attended to other business in connection with it as outlined above.

The meeting in detail:

The meeting was called to order at 8:17. The first business was the reading of minor petitions for light and telephone poles. There were no objections to any of the petitions, all of which were granted. Thomas C.

Lees appeared in favor of a switch to be installed at John and Merrimack streets. H. E. Coburn appeared as a remonstrant, saying the street car company had no right to use the property as his family had deeds of all that property dating back to 1783. The switch is in connection with the proposed new loop of the railway company. The matter was referred to the city solicitor.

Petitions were read for garage licenses. Petitions for personal and land damages were referred to the city solicitor and claim investigator. A number of other petitions were read and referred to various committees and departments.

The Election Commission

The matter of the election commission was then taken up. President Bagley read the announcements of removal of the reasons therefor as filed by Mayor George A. Brown.

Councilor Gallagher moved that the removed commission be given an immediate hearing. It was seconded by Councilor Adams.

When City Solicitor Tierney was asked to move for an immediate hearing, he suggested he said he had not heard of the proposed hearing until he read it after returning from Boston. He said he might be ready by tomorrow.

Asks For Action

Atty. Albert S. Howard, for the deposed commissioners, requested an immediate hearing, on the ground that the commission had important work to perform next week.

Mr. Tierney said he was surprised that his request was not immediately granted.

Atty. Howard again stressed the importance of an immediate hearing.

Councilor Gallagher suggested that the hearing be held tonight if possible, but that he was willing to give both sides a chance.

Atty. Howard then called upon Atty. Cornelius J. O'Neill, who explained that the petition for Plan B had to be in the hands of the secretary of state 30 days prior to November 7, state election day. He said he had been in conference with Assistant Secretary of State Boynton, who gave him his information.

Atty. O'Neill then asked Mr. Tierney several questions relative to the removal of the board. He asked if the removal was work of the new board, or if it was work of the old board. Several more questions were fired broadside by Mr. O'Neill. At this point President Bagley asked Mr. O'Neill what his purpose was. Atty. O'Neill said he was going to "take the time" to ask the mayor to sign the petition for removal of the board.

President Bagley said he would have to ask the permission of the council to allow Mr. O'Neill to proceed. Councilor Adams asked Mr. Tierney if he was allowed to impart any knowledge he had relative to the matter. The motion carried.

Mr. Howard then requested that the hearing be on tonight. He also said that he had been visited by Saturday noon.

The city solicitor continued to object.

Immediate Hearing Voted

When it was brought out that the temporary board already had made a report on the matter, Councilor Gallagher moved an immediate hearing be granted. It was seconded by Councilor Adams and carried.

Councilor Gallagher called for the report of the temporary commission. It was read. Mr. Tierney was given one-half hour to prepare his case. This was the time asked for by him.

New Street Car Loop

During the wait the matter of the new street car loop was again taken up. Mr. Lees was asked several questions relative to traffic on the lines. Councilor Adams asked when Lowell was to get a five cent fare. Mr. Lees said he would not answer the question as he was only acting manager. By a vote of 11 to 4 it was voted to pass the ordinance granting the street railway company the franchise to construct the loop, now under consideration, through French and Brookings street.

Big Hearing Resumed

The election commission matter went on again. Councilor Gallagher moved that the city clerk instruct the members of the temporary commission to appear at the hearing. The motion was seconded by Councilor Adams and carried. Councilor Gallagher said that if the messenger returned and reported the new board would not appear, some action would be taken.

At 2:17 the meeting was again called to order. Councilor Gallagher requested his motion be withdrawn which asked for the appearance of the temporary commission, inasmuch as the members could not be found.

Mr. Tierney Opens Case

Solicitor Tierney opened for the city by saying that for some time the election commission had been complained against. He said the mayor feels the least the commission could do was to give faithful service. "The mayor is out to stop a scandalous forging of names," he declared.

Mr. Tierney attempted to read some letters received from citizens. Attorney Howard objected, and he was sustained by a vote of the council. The solicitor then outlined the present case at length.

Mr. McKim on Witness Stand

The solicitor then asked that Mr. McKim be sworn. He took the stand. He was asked about his service record with the election commission.

Mr. McKim was asked to outline the method of procedure used in checking up the names on the Plan B petition. Mr. McKim was very deliberate in his answers and seemed not the slightest bit nervous. He seemed to baffle Mr. Tierney's leads by saying that the commission had complied with the law.

Original Petition Displayed

The petition was then brought into the council and displayed. A sensation was caused when Mr. Tierney read from the back of the petition that on Sept. 26 the petition was filed by a Frederick Desmond with the city clerk.

clerk. Mr. Tierney showed that the petition was filed on Sept. 26 and charged that the petition was given back to Mr. Desmond on the 26th, so that he could file it with the city clerk.

Mr. Tierney said he would attempt to show in the courts, if necessary, that the election commission sent for Mr. Desmond, and that a conspiracy existed.

Regarding the writing on the petition, Clerk J. Omer Allard of the board said that Mr. Desmond came to show in the courts, if necessary, that the election commission sent for Mr. Desmond, and that a conspiracy existed.

After more than two hours of examination, Mr. Tierney finished with Mr. McKim. Attorney Howard then took the witness.

Mr. McKim said that on the Saturday previous to the filing of the petition he asked Mr. Tierney three questions which were: Who should the petition be filed with? How long would the commission have to certify the names? and What should be done with the petition after the commission had finished with it? He said the questions had not been answered by the solicitor, although promises had been made that they would be on Monday. On Monday the questions still were unanswered, he said.

McKim's Statement Brings Applause

The room rang with applause when Mr. McKim was allowed to make a statement of his own free will. He said he had served under mayors for 12 years and this was the first mayor that ever called him into his office to tell him what to do. Another outburst of applause greeted this statement.

He was then re-examined by Mr. Tierney. At the end of three hours Mr. McKim was allowed to leave the stand.

Joseph H. Maguire Called

Joseph H. Maguire was the next member called. Mr. Tierney took the witness. Mr. Allard was next called to the stand. They had little to add to the testimony already given.

Thomas J. Braden was next to testify. He told of Mayor Brown coming to his office on the night the petition was filed and saying: "Tom, do you know this means my job? You haven't the time to serve. Go down tomorrow and work an hour or so. Go down and do anything in your power to prevent this petition from going through. These are the words he said to me."

Mayor Brown Examined

The mayor was then called. He outlined that had taken place between himself and the election commission.

Mayor Brown then told of the conversation with Mr. Braden referred to above. He said he asked Mr. Braden how many names had been certified on the first day. The mayor said that other than that, they had no conversation.

The mayor attempted to get in the petition and a number of return postal cards as evidence. Attorney Howard objected. Mr. Tierney then offered the affidavits. The president sustained the objection and a long wrangle on points of law then followed between opposing attorneys. The city solicitor appealed from the ruling of the president.

Mr. Tierney requested that he be allowed an opportunity to produce the people in person who he alleged to have signed the postcards and affidavits.

The solicitor was unanimously sustained.

feated in the request. At 2:13 a.m., a recess of ten minutes was declared and a luncheon was served in the mayor's reception room.

Howard Cross-Examined Brown

Atty. Howard then cross-examined Mayor Brown. He asked him questions relative to the appointment of Joseph A. Cloutier as a temporary member of the board. He was asked if he knew that three members of the board could transact business.

Mr. McKim asked City Solicitor Tierney why he called him on the stand on the day he had been removed and told him that he had not been removed when, as a matter of fact, he (McKim) had the removal papers in his pocket. The solicitor said that he didn't know Mr. McKim had been removed at that time. Atty. Howard said he would offer no argument as it was evident that the charges against the commission had not been sustained.

Tierney Hits Out at Braden

Atty. Tierney then started his argument. He said that if he were a member of the council he would offer to remove one member of the commission, namely Mr. Braden. He said the attitude of Mr. Braden toward the council showed he was unfit for service.

Mr. Braden then asked to be allowed to say a few words. He said he did not believe any member of the board did anything but what he thought was square. He said he would do in the future as he had done in the past and that he wouldn't do crooked things as he was asked.

Councilor Gallagher for Reinstatement

Councilor Gallagher then addressed the council. He brought out the most prominent points of the testimony and requested the council to attention to the fact that the mayor's own commission came to a very close margin of names necessary for the petition to appear on the ballot. He expressed the belief that the election commission had done its full duty as required and moved that the evidence presented be accepted.

It carried unanimously on a roll call vote.

The members of the commission were all unanimously reinstated. They were voted on separately. This vote was completed at just 3:35 o'clock.

On behalf of the commission Mr. McKim thanked the members.

Commissioners Again Reinstated

Immediately following the taking of the vote the commissioners received notices that they were again removed.

Councilor Gallagher made a motion that the clerk of the board be instructed to notify the secretary of state that the council had reinstated the old board and that the report of temporary board was erroneous.

Atty. Howard made the suggestion that the removed members apply in writing for an immediate hearing.

The council then acted on Councilor Gallagher's motion. It was unanimously carried.

The mayor notified the council that he would file his charges against the commission later.

Wants New Charges at Once

Councilor Gallagher moved that the mayor be ordered to file his charges at once. It was seconded and the messenger sent to deliver the message.

Councilor Gallagher then moved that the messenger be instructed to notify the mayor that the council would hear the charges at 1:10. The mayor did not appear.

Councilor Gallagher stated that the mayor was in the building when first notified of the council's hearing. The petitions for immediate hearing by the commissioners were then read. They did not waive any rights but insisted upon the invalidity of removal.

The messenger stated he had notified the mayor that the council wanted him to appear and present his charges. The mayor answered "What for?" and left the building, said Mr. McKim.

Councilor Gallagher moved that inasmuch as the mayor had not appeared to present charges and that there was no evidence of misconduct by the new commission, the evidence be deemed insufficient. It was unanimously voted.

Reinstated for Second Time

The members once more were unanimously reinstated. The names were voted on separately. This vote was taken at 4:23 a.m.

It was then moved that the city clerk be instructed to notify the secretary of state that it had reinstated the old board. The vote was carried.

The elections commission then filed with the city clerk a statement that it had certified the required number of names to the petition. It was then voted to notify the secretary of state as to the act.

It was also voted to notify the secretary of state that the council had accepted the report of the removed election commission.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Russian Act That Will Make a Wonderful Appeal—Next Week's Striking Headliner

You won't be able to beat the bill that will be on parade at the B. F. Keith theatre tomorrow. It will be a highly interesting one from start to finish, with Al and Fanny Stedman in their piano act, and with the Beaumont Sisters giving their choicest songs. There is also a mystery play, and a comedy. The mystery play will give some of their finest chatter, Olga and Alan Parado, singer and dancer, will add not a little to the bill. Jones and Colledge, in songs and chatter, and Tilly May, a singer, will also be on the day's bill.

For the coming week page Katoushka, a Russian, who will give a scene in a Russian village, assisted by five noted Russian artists. This is an out-cropping of "Chauve Souris," which has caused such a furore in New York. These players came from Moscow with the original "Chauve Souris" players, and what they give is a very close picture of the sensational success which all New York clamored to see for many months. It is a veritable triumph.

Back to us will come Sandy Shaw, the eminent Scottish comedian, with his own repertoire. Shaw has an unusually well developed sense of humor, and a keen flair for characterization. He knows the Scottish character perfectly, and in his songs and dialect he is sure to give no end of pleasure, whether one possesses a smack of Scotch blood or not.

Lou Miller and Alice Bradford in a bit of musical comedy novelty called "Typical Typical Tales," will give some of the vaudeville entertainment. They have good voices, and a splendid idea of what audiences want. Inasmuch as they are trained and true performers in their line, they are sure to make a pronounced hit. Mildred Reed and Harold Selman in "On the Roof" have a novelty, skit with songs called "On the Roof." It affords good opportunity for songs and dances. The twins are a clever couple, who do many things. Jack Adams and the Thompson Sisters will give a "Musical Threesome," and the Medleys, who know balancing and athletics, will present in the Moonlight. Jean and Arthur Kealey will offer a comedy diversion which will please.

OPERA HOUSE
Clever comedians! A carload of scenery! A wardrobe unexcelled! And an atmosphere that will find appreciation in all lovers of genuinely good stage entertainment. All coming in making an opening attraction at the Opera House all next week an assured treat for all. Tommy Levene and P. Q. Murray's big musical comedy production, "Oh! U Baby," is sure to be one of the best hits of vaudeville comedy productions that the stage has to offer this season. Owner Schanke was obliged to go to extra expense and resort to special measures in order to secure this engagement at such an early date. It's popularity has made it one of the "best sellers" of the year and the local management was obliged to go into the open market and bid high for its appearance here. Knowing full well that theatre folk of this community have a thorough appreciation for the best in any line of stage entertainment, Mr. Schanke didn't hesitate a minute in booking up this big production and naturally expects that the patrons will turn out in large numbers during the coming engagement, which begins Monday night and continues twice daily thereafter.

There are 25 people in the cast, including a beauty chorus of Broadway stars, whose cleverness, personal charm and exquisite wardrobe places it in a class with the very best. Messrs. Levene and Murray are easily the best comedians in their line on the stage today. They are assisted by several other stage favorites, both men and women, and their combined efforts make for a wonderfully good, strong musical production.

As an added attraction, that will help make the offering of exceptional strength, will be Drake's "Shuffle Along." This organization of musicians are too well known to need more than passing comment. Their program includes some of the best music of the day, and the orchestra introduces something real new in their special line.

Tickets for the week's engagement are now being sold at the Central street entrance. Better make your reservations at once, particularly for the opening performance Monday night. early date. It's popularity has made it one of the "best sellers" of the year and the local management was obliged to go into the open market and bid high for its appearance here. Knowing full well that theatre folk of this community have a thorough appreciation for the best in any line of stage entertainment, Mr. Schanke didn't hesitate a minute in booking up this big production and naturally expects that the patrons will turn out in large numbers during the coming engagement, which begins Monday night and continues twice daily thereafter.

There are 25 people in the cast, including a beauty chorus of Broadway stars, whose cleverness, personal charm and exquisite wardrobe places it in a class with the very best. Messrs. Levene and Murray are easily the best comedians in their line on the stage today. They are assisted by several other stage favorites, both men and women, and their combined efforts make for a wonderfully good, strong musical production.

As an added attraction, that will help make the offering of exceptional strength, will be Drake's "Shuffle Along." This organization of musicians are too well known to need more than passing comment. Their program includes some of the best music of the day, and the orchestra introduces something real new in their special line.

OPERA HOUSE
Clever comedians! A carload of scenery! A wardrobe unexcelled! And an atmosphere that will find appreciation in all lovers of genuinely good stage entertainment. All coming in making an opening attraction at the Opera House all next week an assured treat for all. Tommy Levene and P. Q. Murray's big musical comedy production, "Oh! U Baby," is sure to be one of the best hits of vaudeville comedy productions that the stage has to offer this season. Owner Schanke was obliged to go to extra expense and resort to special measures in order to secure this engagement at such an early date. It's popularity has made it one of the "best sellers" of the year and the local management was obliged to go into the open market and bid high for its appearance here. In the Sunday program the Rialto has secured a return engagement of the tremendous success, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" Mary Anderson in "Bluebird Jr." is the second feature and "County Chickens," is the comedy.

THE STRAND

Strand Will Observe Its Fifth Anniversary by Program of Unusual Worth and Excellence

Five years ago the coming week The Strand listed among the best equipped and most modern picture playhouses of New England, opened. Patrons may recall the event when people from all parts of this community crowded this spacious amusement centre to the doors. It was an occasion long to be remembered in theatrical annals of Lowell.

Manager Samuel Torgan believes it fitting to observe the fifth birthday anniversary of the theatre in a manner that will reflect in the outstanding fact that "The Strand is 'bigger and better' by arranging a program of unusual worth and excellence, and thus make the occasion one that will help retain in the minds of picture patrons of the district that this theatre still holds the preeminent herabourts. Manager Torgan is going to make the week's birthday anniversary a regular picture party for all Sunday's program will have select vaudeville and photography headed by Richard Warwick in "The Man of the Hour."

For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday he has secured for entertainment, an adaptation of Lincoln Carter's famous melodramatic success, "The Fast Mail," unquestionably the most stirring and thrilling picture offering of the year. Then Gladys Walton, "the greatest find since Mary Pickford," will be shown in "The Troupers." A good comedy and excellent Weekly will help make the offering one of exceptional value. For the last three days of the week the startling melodramatic success that stirred New York "What's Wrong With Women?" and Roy Stewart and a well-known cast of stars in "The Sage Brush Trail" will be shown. A high-grade series of vaudeville acts and an entire change of pictures is scheduled for Sunday.

Lincoln Carter was the man who elevated the drama to the nth degree of ecstasy for the "gallery gods," as well as those who occupied the orchestra and balcony. His picture play of "The Fast Mail" is said to outstrip by many degrees anything ever attempted on or in his stage productions. Cinemas follow climaxes and thrills mount on thrills in this cyclonic melodrama, which was called "the liveliest thing ever shown on Broadway." The story starts at the sensational Lisle and Steeplechase and follows with lightning-like speed and action until the final fadeaway when the biggest of all is shown. Whirlwind hurdlings, dangerous stunts, steamboat explosion, desperate races by horses, train and auto, life and death struggles in the water and in burning buildings, rescues from death in the river and from the flames in a hotel—these and many others of a similar and most spectacular nature, are shown. Can any action picture offer more? Eileen Percy and Charles Jones are the stars.

Gladys Walton, called "the greatest find since the discovery of Mary Pickford," will be shown in her newest comedy drama of life behind the scenes. We might tell you a lot about the star and the story, but we believe it proper to have you enjoy a full measure of both by seeing this picture offering. Suffice to say that this bewitching little star never appeared to better advantage.

Only a cast of utmost brilliance would suffice for such a picture drama as "What's Wrong With Women," the big feature for the last three days of the week. Look over the cast and judge for yourself. Wilton Luckaye, Constance Bennett, Barbara Castleton, Montague Love, Mrs. DeVolt Mopper, Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, Baby Helen Rowland, Paul McAllister, Rod La Rocque and others of equal note. So much for the cast. Now for the picture. It's the kind that will make every one who sees it think—and think hard. Never before in novel, stage or screen has that modern dynamo of ever-changing emotions—the woman of today—been pictured so realistically in all of her strength and weakness as in "What's Wrong With Women." It is in no sense an attack upon woman-kind. It is a bold, honest and bare revelation of whims, weaknesses and follies of woman and it deals a crushing indictment to the forces of folly, hypocrisy and extravagance. You mustn't miss this treat.

"The Sage Brush Trail" is a brand new type of western play with an all-star cast including Roy Stewart, John Walker, Marjorie Daw and others. It's a good balance to the other big feature. A comedy and Weekly will round out the prize picture program for many a day.

Wilton Luckaye, Constance Bennett, Barbara Castleton, Montague Love, Mrs. DeVolt Mopper, Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, Baby Helen Rowland, Paul McAllister, Rod La Rocque and others of equal note. So much for the cast. Now for the picture. It's the kind that will make every one who sees it think—and think hard. Never before in novel, stage or screen has that modern dynamo of ever-changing emotions—the woman of today—been pictured so realistically in all of her strength and weakness as in "What's Wrong With Women." It is in no sense an attack upon woman-kind. It is a bold, honest and bare revelation of whims, weaknesses and follies of woman and it deals a crushing indictment to the forces of folly, hypocrisy and extravagance. You mustn't miss this treat.

"The Sage Brush Trail" is a brand new type of western play with an all-star cast including Roy Stewart, John Walker, Marjorie Daw and others. It's a good balance to the other big feature. A comedy and Weekly will round out the prize picture program for many a day.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Mae Murray in "Broadway Rose"

Feature Attraction Next Week—Engagement Over Tomorrow

Another big photoplay de luxe has been announced for the coming week at the Merrimack Square theatre by Manager Walter J. Nelson. Beginning Sunday the popular Paige street amusement house will present "Broadway Rose," a dazzling story of the career of a Broadway favorite with captivating Mae Murray in the leading role.

Mae Murray is one of the most brilliant stars before the screen today. One of her noted achievements is her dancing ability and in her latest success she has plenty of opportunity to demonstrate her terpsichorean skill.

In the story of "Broadway Rose," Edmund Goulding has created for Mae Murray a photoplay which gives every opportunity for the display of her prepossessing beauty, boundless vitality and charming grace. As Linsale Lawrence, the dancer who renounced her career for the man she loved, Mae Murray has a role that fits her like the proverbial glove. She has long been associated in the minds of the public with the very life which is here depicted. She knows the very thoughts and aspirations of such a girl as Linsale Lawrence. She brings to the impersonation of this role a sincerity and a dramatic power which will surprise her most enthusiastic critics. However far removed the spectator may be from the life and experiences which female underdoes he cannot help but follow her struggle with personal sympathy.

GHOST FROM BASEBALL'S GRAVE-YARD HERO OF THIRD GAME

Long John Scott, Resurrected From "Cemetery" Made Yankees Look Like Dead Ones and Giants Buried Rivals by Score of 3 to 0—Yankees Today Stand in Shadows of Tomb

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. (By the Associated Press.)—The spirit of a ghost from baseball's graveyard, Miller Huggins, Yankee manager today in the shadows of his own tomb. They must recover from the blight of the phantom, Long John Scott, whose rattling bat-foot bones gave them a scare yesterday from the likes of which only one team in world series history has recovered.

The unearthly pitching that the specter brought from the cemetery, caused the Yankees' bats to pass through as if the balls were bits of cotton, and in a worldly way of speaking, defeated them 3 to 0 in the third game of the world series. The defeat was the second in the series for the Yankees.

Long John's pitching bones were laid to rest last July. Pat Moran of the Cincinnati Reds, officiated at the funeral of the pitcher, and the Yankees, with spirit and a dash, were laid to rest in the cemetery of the dead.

Then some world being communicated with spirit and a dash, were laid to rest in the cemetery of the dead.

to forget about it by making desperate plans for today's game.

He believes that Carl Mays, who hasn't been having any great success with his underhand delivery this year, might halt the advance of McGraw's men. If Mays doesn't hear out this belief, Huggins is prepared to make a still more desperate play and send Bush into the game with but two days rest.

McGraw, with the two victories chalked up, can afford to take chances and he has accumulated Hugh McQuillan for the pitching duty. Ryan, the youngster who relieved Nantz and worked so admirably for a short spell in the opening game, is to be kept ready for relief. Snyder probably will be behind the plate for the Giants. Stange's lame leg still bothers him and Cunningham will most likely have the centerfield job for the Nationals.

The Giants scored their runs of the third game in the third and seventh innings. The phantom opened the third with a single over second. Bancroft then sent a hot grounder to Ward, who kicked it into center. The blow might have gone for a hit as Ward had to make a great dive to get behind it, but the scorers called it an error. It sent Scott to third. Groh then bounced a high one to first, who tossed to Dugan catching Scott on the way home. Bancroft got to third and Groh to second, while Huggins scored on E. Meusel's single to right center.

Erlich's single to right in the seventh, after two were out, scored Bancroft who had walked and advanced to third when Groh singled on a hit and run play.

Huggins tried to stave off defeat by using Elmer Smith and "Home Run" Baker as pinch hitters for Ward and Hoyt in the last moments of play. But the specter's curves were too much for them. Sam Jones pitched the final inning for the Yankees.

BIG FOOTBALL GAMES

Harvard and Holy Cross Meet at Stadium—Yale Plays North Carolina.

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 7.—Harvard in its second "variety" football test this season today met a strong opponent in Holy Cross. The crimson presented a new line up because of injuries to players sustained in the Middlebury game last Saturday.

There was a slight fall of rain early in the record early season crowd of more than 10,000 persons is expected to be in the stadium at game time. In the last two meetings of the eleven, Harvard has won by a score of 2 to 0, the margin of one field goal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Eastern college football eleven today generally face the first serious opposition of the season.

The outstanding game in point of popular interest is the encounter at West Point, between the Army and Princeton.

Harvard tackles Holy Cross at Cambridge with prospects for a hard tilt. The Worcester collegians held the crimson to a 3 to 0 score last year.

Princeton meets Virginia at Princeton. Last year the southerners were swamped under 24 points. The orange and black, weakened by the loss of many of last year's is an untied aggregation while Virginia is reputed to be stronger.

Yale will play without the services of Captain Jordan and other first string players, will match North Carolina in the bowl. The blue won last season 34 to 0.

Cornell's pig and team expected an easy game with Niagara.

University of Pittsburgh looks for a busy afternoon with the strong Lafayette team. Penn State tackles Gettysburg.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 7.—Yale met North Carolina this afternoon in the third game of the season in the Yale bowl.

FLOYD JOHNSON KAYOS BOB MARTIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Floyd Johnson of California advanced a notch in the first of his career today by winning a technical knockout in the 10th round over Bob Martin, heavyweight champion of the American Export Athletic Union.

At the end of the third round Johnson had established a commanding lead by clever use of his powerful left, and the fight was a foregone conclusion.

In the second Johnson hooked Martin with a left and then took a hard right to the jaw. Blood was flowing from a cut over Martin's left eye and from his mouth in the third.

Martin made up lost ground by landing an attack in the fourth, sending Johnson to the ropes. The Californian came back furiously and in the fifth landed telling blows at will.

Martin was groggy and on the verge of a knockout throughout the sixth, but Johnson could not place the desired blow. He placed a jab with good effect from Martin's injuries.

Martin was dazed and reeling in the seventh but Johnson, who was firing, was back in the fight. The Californian humbled Martin with both hands but his blows lacked power.

With a chance for the fight, Johnson staggered Johnson in the eighth but took a terrific lacing. Martin was helpless in the ninth and Johnson landed at will but could not put over the fight.

Martin rushed to meet Johnson in the latter's corner as the tenth opened. He missed and made a half turn, falling back into the ropes. Johnson pounced on his helpless opponent and rained a shower of hooks to the jaw and ribs. Martin simply stood and took the punishment until his seconds begged a towel into the ring, ending the fight.

WORLD SERIES FLASHES

Six of Nine Runs Scored by Giants Driven Home by Irish Meusel

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. By the Associated Press.—Six of the nine runs scored by the Giants since the series began, were driven home by Irish Meusel.

His clutch in the first game drove across two runs, tied the score, and advanced a third runner so that he was able to trot in with the winning run on a sacrifice fly. This second day Meusel wanted a home run with two on base, giving the Giants all of their scores for the afternoon. Yesterday his single in the third sent Groh across the counting rubber. He got only one hit a day but each came when it was of utmost value.

Christy Mathewson, playing the reporter's role in this series, warms up his writing arm before the game starts by compiling with requests for autographs on lined, score cards, program or whatever the besieging souvenir hunters have handy. Just before Hermann's opening game Gary Red, left his box to pay a short visit of greeting to Matty. He did not utter a word but with a plea for his signature.

Jack Dempsey was on hand again. His usual calm and collected and calm pose as is usual when 40 photographers and a hundred camp followers surround a big man wearing a champagne colored suit and a diamond seat, Dempsey went out upon the field to exchange pleasantries with John McGraw. Ten thousand Angers pointed him out to 20,000 eyes.

Babe Ruth could not hit the ball beyond the infield. Three times Scott pitched to him with such exceeding skill that the home run blinger topped the ball so that it took a high bound and was killed between first and second. The only time the bumbino got on base was when Scott curved the ball into his ample anatomy. Hints at how he was soundly by Giants every time the home run struck at the ball or had a strike called on him.

FOOTBALL GAME AT SHEDD PARK TOMORROW

O.M.I. CADETS VS. INDIANS

On Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, the O.M.I. Cadets will meet the Lowell Indians at Shedd park. This is the game that local football followers have awaited since the opening of the season. The Indians, with "Rip" McIntyre at the helm, have a fast and heavy team, one that is in there fighting till the final whistle.

The Cadets will present the same line-up that carried them to victory for the past two weeks. Capt. O'Connor has had his charges at practice all this week and on Sunday expects to wipe out the defeat that they received last year at the hands of the Indians.

The rivalry between the two factions is very keen and the agreement reached was that the game be played on neutral ground. The followers of both teams have organized cheering sections to incite their particular team to its best effort and with good weather prevailing, Sunday's game should be the banner event of the season.

TROJANS TO PLAY IN LAWRENCE SUNDAY

The Trojan football team of Belvidere will play its first game of the season at O'Sullivan park, Lawrence, tomorrow afternoon. The Claret and white of the strongest outfit in the down-river city, will provide the opposition for the team boys and boys teams are in fine fettle for the match. A close and exciting contest is expected. Leo Pope will be seen in the Trojan line. The team is expected to play tomorrow.

One of the best football men in Lowell today and gained much experience with the champion A.E. team in France, was destroyed. When the blaze was discovered an alarm was sent in, but the fire had gained too much headway, and all the firemen could do was to save the adjoining buildings.

HOLLOCHER

BY BILLY EVANS

If there could be such a thing as a duplicate of Honus Warner, then Charley Hollocher of the Chicago Cubs fills the bill.

At least, such is the opinion of veteran players and critics who saw the "Flying Dutchman" gobble in grounders at shortstop and who have followed Hollocher as the Cubs' shortstop.

Hollocher, like Wagner, seems to be in perpetual motion. Instead of digging the spikes deep into the dirt he swerves and sways as the pitcher is delivering the ball, and allows himself to get a running start on all balls hit in his direction.

The difference between Hollocher and Wagner is found only in physical figures.

Honus was a ponderous athlete; broad shoulders, a chest the size of a heavyweight wrestler, and a pair of hands that would have fitted comfortably in a ham skin than a pair of gloves.

Hollocher reaches but five feet eight inches and weighs in the neighborhood of 160—but he's all muscles and steel.

Hollocher has improved probably more than any player in the National league this season, and those on the inside say that Bill Killefer, manager of the Cubs is responsible for this change in his shortstopper.

Hollocher was a mighty good shortstop before Killefer took over the management of the Cubs. Under Killefer he has played remarkably well. Killefer has handled him differently from any other Cub manager.

Hollocher is of the temperamental type that doesn't thrive on nagging. That was his most under a certain Cub regime. Another Cub leader tried to change his batting style and also offered many suggestions as to his fielding. Hollocher tried to follow some of them and his play suffered.

Killefer had played on the same teams with Hollocher and when he became manager, his advice to his shortstop was short and sweet.

"You know more about playing shortstop than any one else on this club. Don't take instructions from anybody. Simply play your game and do it naturally."

"Play your game," was the bit of advice that Hollocher took to heart. From a .275 hitter he is batting well over .300 and is regarded as the most brilliant fielder in the National league.

RIVAL MANAGERS PRAISE JACK SCOTT

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. (By A. P.)—The perfect control of John Scott, curve ball pitcher, who several months ago was thrown into baseball's discard, was the outstanding feature of the third game of the world series, according to McGraw and Huggins, managers of the Giants and Yankees.

McGraw, considered the best judge of pitching ability in baseball, who picked up Scott, a castoff, in mid-season, said he knew Scott had plenty of stuff, but that his control was a thing to marvel at.

"Catcher, Earl Smith told me," said McGraw, "that not once during the game did Scott fail to put the ball where he wanted it. His curves were breaking perfectly, and after a couple of innings I just let him and Smith work it out for themselves."

"I thought that our team should have counted more runs on their hits, but with Scott's pitching that didn't matter. We won and the credit is all Scott's."

Huggins, the Yankee leader, also praised the Giant pitcher's work.

"We thought," he said, "that Scott would be easy for us, but his control was too good."

"I think that the error credited to Ward lost the game for us. It was a bad ball and Ward was hardly to blame for kicking it, but that was one of the better plays I saw."

Huggins said he would start Mays in today's game, and McGraw, who now can afford to take a chance, is to have McQuillan and Ryan ready.

BROOKTON, Oct. 7.—Robert T. Jones, Jr. of Atlanta, Ga., amateur golf champion of the south and now a student at Harvard, with H. H. Martin, a local player, today opened the British masters. The contest will be played on the 26-hole match over the course at Thorny Lea. The play was divided into 18 holes each, morning and afternoon.

Who Hit Witt With a Pop Bottle

WHITNEY WITT AND THE POP BOTTLE

James P. Hon, a salesman for Morris & Company, packers, traveling out of St. Louis, is the luckiest fan in the world today.

While thousands of fans all over the United States are scrambling for world series tickets, Hon was handed a complete set on a silver platter by Ban D. Johnson, president of the American Baseball league, accompanied by his personal check for $100, including round-trip transportation between St. Louis and New York, and Edward Morris, president of Morris & Company, granted him leave of absence, with full pay, to attend the world series games.

It all came about by Hon solving the "pop bottle mystery."

During the recent crucial series between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Browns, Fielder Whitney Witt of the Yanks was struck by a pop bottle and so injured that he had to be carried off the field.

Great indignation was expressed by fans and players all over the country, and great effort was made to find the supposed thrower of the bottle.

Hon, who happened to have a seat very near to where the accident occurred, solved the mystery in a letter to President Johnson explaining just how the accident occurred.

Witt, running, stepped on the neck of the bottle, causing it to bounce up and strike him in the head.

Johnson was so well pleased with this explanation that he sent Hon the tickets to the world series, his check and the transportation.

Rain Breaks Drought and Hot Spell

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—New England's second summer, which has reigned since the advent of October, was broken today by a cold northwest wind and rain. During the last six days the heat wave has shattered all October records. A slight rainfall last night broke a drought that was in its 20th day, establishing a record dry period for this time of year, weather bureau officials said. The longest drought in the bureau's annals came in February, 1877, when there was no precipitation for 24 days.

MANY LIVES LOST AS RESULT OF FIRES

According to a conservative estimate at least 15,000 persons lost their lives in the United States last year as the result of fires. Considerably more than this number were seriously injured from the same cause. When we are told that most of those killed and injured were women and children, that they were sacrificed because of carelessness and that this toll is increasing each year, we realize that some definite steps should be taken to halt the destruction. From a humane standpoint, therefore, if for no other, it is the duty of every sane person to exercise particular care to prevent fires. Furthermore, it is his duty to know what to do when he discovers that a fire has started. Many lives and much property would be saved annually if the person who first saw the fire had known how to call quickly for proper assistance.

"JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES"

Jack took off his cap while Stony was rushing out of his coat. Then the fight started. The boys battled carefully for a few minutes, feeling each other out. Bill looked on.

Suddenly Jack shot out his right fist and caught Stony square in the nose. Then he feinted with his left and slipped over another blow that fairly amazed Stony.

By this time Stony was furiously mad and he swung wildly at Jack. His blows went astray, however, as Jack ducked cleverly. Then Jack delivered a quick punch and Stony went down.

It was easy to see that Jack knew too much about boxing for Stony. "I've had enough," shouted Jack's victim. "You sure can fight, young fellow, and I quit." Continued.

ance. We all realize that the first few minutes after the fire starts is the most important time in which to fight it.

Today fire alarm boxes are placed at convenient locations. These boxes are of little value unless the person needing to use them is acquainted with their location and the proper method of sounding an alarm. Although most alarm boxes are easy to operate, many persons have no idea of how this should be done.

Everyone should make it his business to learn the location of the nearest fire alarm box and how to use it. He should further see that others of his family are acquainted with these facts. It is advisable, furthermore, to impart this information to all school children so that they fully understand what to do and how. Merchants, manufacturers and other business organizations will find it to their advantage to see that every employee has this knowledge. It is impossible to determine who will be called upon to sound the next alarm. All should be prepared.

A further important consideration relative to the saving of lives is the proper method of emptying a burning building of its occupants. Where a large number of persons are assembled in one building such as a school, a public institution or a factory, it is advisable that fire drills be held. Arrangements should be made to conduct such drills at irregular intervals in order that the occupants will obtain the habits of answering the alarm whenever it is sounded. The frequency of these tests will depend upon the type of building and the number of persons occupying it.

Experience has shown that employees and school children become interested in fire drills. They are anxious to do their part in establishing a time record for emptying their building or department. The drill will acquaint everyone of the proper exit to be used and will also assure an orderly clearance in the case of an actual fire.

The present week, which is being observed as Fire Prevention Week, presents an excellent opportunity for teaching the use of the fire alarm box and for initiating fire drills.

WOMEN AFTER MORE SEATS IN PARLIAMENT
LONDON, Oct. 7.—The women of England are in an intensive campaign with a view to securing more women members of parliament. They are quite satisfied with Lady Astor and Mrs. Wintringham, but they want more women in the house of commons to keep these two from feeling lonely. Some of the party have now formed a committee to embrace all parties—except the communists. They call it the women's election committee. They are raising a central fund, too, to help women candidates. Anyone who sends along more than a pound can have it earmarked for the support of a candidate for any particular party.

Adventures of the Twins

TWELVE TOES PLANS TO WRECK TWINS' CAR ON MILKY WAY

IT GREW TO THE SKY IN A LONG, STRONG, GREEN VINE

Twelve Toes planted a magic bean and instantly it grew to the sky in a long, strong, green vine exactly like the one Jack the Giant Killer climbed.

"There now," he said to Light Fingers, "acrobatic up as fast as you can. But wait a minute. Here are some very sharp tacks. Put them in your sock and scatter them along the Milky Way."

"When the Twins come along in the automobile, that I wish to have for my own, bang!—all their tires will blow up and they will have to stop."

"Then you jump in and bring the automobile to me at once."

Light Fingers grinned.

"Yes, sir! I'll do all you say, sir. If there's anything I like to hear, it's your blowing up. They make such a nice noise."

Light Fingers put the tacks in his sock and started to climb.

The bean stalk was high and strong and pretty soon he'd passed the clouds.

Up, he went—up and up and up.

Next he passed the Moon and waved a howdy to Mr. Peenaboot, the Moon Man.

Up he went—up and up and up and up.

By and by he came to the Milky Way. He stepped off the magic bean stalk, which disappeared instantly then he stood shading his eyes with his hand and looking this way and that to see if there was any sign of the Twins.

By and by he heard a sound. "gr, gr, gr, chug, chug, chug," away off in the distance.

"Here they come," he chuckled, sticking his long fingers into his pocket and pulling out the sharp tacks.

"I'll just sprinkle these around now, then wait behind that funny little house I see over there."

"When their tires blow up the Twins will get out of the magic bean stalk. Then I'll push them off the Milky Way and fix the tires, and take the magic automobile back to Twelve Toes."

Rosalie Lawrence finds her hope for happiness in the love of Hugh Thompson, whose parents are wealthy and of the socially elect.

Rosalie discovers, however, that the passage from Broadway to Fifth Avenue is not easily accomplished.

The Thompsons have other plans for their son. Marriage with a Broadway dancer is not included in their social code. They have already picked out the wife for their son in Barbara Rose, a debutante from the White Way.

And so Rosalie consents to a secret marriage in order that there may be no break with his parents.

The results of this step involve Rosalie in a series of stirring incidents which threaten her with disaster but she eventually finds happiness.

Supporting Miss Murray in a cast of unusual excellence containing such well known players as Monte Blue, Ward Crane, Ray, Bloomer, Alvin Tull and Mrs. Jennings.

The producers of "Broadway Rose" have not been content to reach the laurels of the previous productions. They aimed to surpass and have succeeded in surpassing the high standards which were set in those productions.

LOWELL SETS THE PACE AN INSPIRING RECITAL

Galli-Curci Concert Receipts
Set New Mark for New England

Madam Galli-Curci received the sum of five thousand seven hundred thirteen dollars and forty cents for her concert in Memorial Auditorium Friday evening. A draft on a New York bank was obtained for that amount Saturday morning at the Lowell Trust company by John L. Donovan and delivered to Lawrence Evans, her manager.

Under the terms of the contract Madam Galli-Curci was to receive seventy percent of the gross receipts with the provision that she must receive a minimum of three thousand dollars. This provision is inserted in the contract to protect Madam from suffering from inexperienced managers. The total gross receipts were $5,163 and probably set a new mark for New England. Mr. Evans said that the receipts from Symphony hall, Boston, always go over $5,000.

Mr. Donovan's share of the gross receipts was $2,118.60. He is obliged to pay all expenses from his share. The personal expenses of Madam and her party are borne by her manager, who, in turn, is paid by her by the local manager. Under the contract it was impossible for Mr. Donovan to give a ticket away without paying for it. He was also forbidden to make radio connections for the concert.

Madam Galli-Curci and her party left Lowell this noon for Boston. Mr. Donovan arranged with Capt. Joseph Molloy to drive them over the road. Before leaving she expressed great pleasure with the responsiveness of her Lowell audience. She also said that she thought the acoustic properties of the Auditorium were the best in the country. Mr. Berenguer and Mr. Evans agreed with her. Mr. Sullivan thought that the acoustics of the Memorial Auditorium in Cleveland were as fine.

Madam expressed the hope that she might be asked to return to Lowell some time. After her manager finished checking up the house with Mr. Donovan in the wee small hours of the morning they came to an agreement about a date in the future. It will probably be two years from now. For next season Mr. Evans offered Mr. Donovan his choice of three New England cities where Madam wished to go.

Mr. Blackwell of the firm of architects who designed the Auditorium attended the concert. He met Madam after it and they exchanged felicitations on their combination efforts which made the evening so nearly perfect. Lowell fared better than either Montreal or Albany in the matter of prices of tickets. In both of these cities where Madam sang, this week the top price was set at five dollars. The price of the three dollars was written into the Lowell contract. Mr. Donovan has been very frank in the management of the concert, for he showed the contract to representatives of all the newspapers as well as Mr. Boulger of the trustees. In correcting misunderstanding he also has shown a statement of Mr. Elser of the Chaffoux's for the entire set of tickets for the concert. Every ticket purchased by out-of-town people was bought from Chaffoux's through the mail.

The concert was the twenty-first major one in the history of the Lowell Symphony Orchestra. It was conducted by Fritz Kreisler, six by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, two by Frieda Hempel and single concerts by the Sistine Chapel Quartet, Louise Homer, Mme. Schumann-Helfrich, Julia Clouston, Gertrude Hildebrand, Nathaniel Manninoff, and Arthur Middleton. With four permanent assistants this season he will present Jascha Heifetz, Sophie Braslau, Reinhold Wehrenst, and the Boston Symphonies in Lawrence and Geraldine Farnham, Fritz Kreisler, and Nathaniel Manninoff in both Lowell and Lynn.

TWO INJURED WHEN CAR TURNED TURTLE

As the result of a Ford automobile turning turtle after a collision with a Packard on the Pawtucket boulevard late yesterday afternoon, William Morganstern and Peter Kelly, both of Manchester, N. H., were taken to the Lowell General Hospital suffering from painful injuries and Fred A. Hill, of Hooksett, N. H., owner of the car, was taken to the police station where he was booked on the charge of drunkenness. Peter Druevencher, of Manchester, N. H., the other occupant of the car, was unhurt.

According to the story told the police, the Ford, containing Hill and his party of friends, was going along the boulevard in the direction of Pawtucket when a Packard came down the boulevard and struck the Ford, causing it to turn turtle. It is said that the Packard then drove off without stopping to see what damage had been done. Hill will be arraigned in court at a later date on the charge of drunkenness. The police have not yet been able to ascertain who was driving the Ford car but when they do a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor will be lodged against one of the four men.

AUTUMN PARTY AND DANCE IN DRACUT

The first big preliminary event in connection with the coming K. C. of C. carnival was conducted last night by the Santa Maria committee of Dracut in the form of an autumn party and dance, held in the Grand hall, Dracut Centre. Townspeople who were present voted it the largest crowd that ever attended a similar affair in that hall, every available space being occupied. A musical entertainment was furnished by the Dracut orchestra, followed by general dancing until midnight. Refreshments were served at intermission, ice cream, cake and candy being disposed of in large quantities. The street railway accommodately operated extra cars.

The men and women directly responsible for the evening's success are as follows: George P. Keefe, chairman; John Flannery, Patrick Flannery, John E. Hart, George McKenna, John Sargent, Thomas Donnelly, John Donnelly, Richard Costello, Thomas O'Brien, John Sullivan, James Riley, Edward Seilly, Mrs. John Connelley, Mrs. Eileen Gaffney, and Misses Mary Gallagher, Winifred Hart, Rose Nickerson and Anna Callery.

Thousands Hear Beautiful
Voice of Galli-Curci at
Memorial Auditorium

The Lowell Memorial Auditorium last night, for the second time, was filled to the limits of its capacity. On September 21, thousands gathered there for exercises of formal dedication, while last evening other thousands came together in the beautiful structure to pay homage to one of the world's most renowned artists, Amelia Galli-Curci, who, for two hours gave an inspiring recital of songs that for sheer brilliancy and artistry attained the highest pinnacle of vocal accomplishment.

No one of the four thousand men and women who heard Madam Galli-Curci will ever forget her wonderful voice, but the recital had a significance far beyond the honor of her appearance for it marked the rejuvenation of the art of music in Lowell in the hall that is to play such a prominent part in the city's future development.

Such an audience as that of last evening must have been an inspiration to any artist, and surely it was to Madam Galli-Curci. Her actions clearly showed her pleasure. She was recorded a splendid reception and as she progressed with her recital and came more and more into personal contact and relationship with her audience, there developed a spirit of comradeship that was evident and lasting.

Madam Galli-Curci sings with the same ease that marks the ordinary speech of a normal man or woman. Her voice, in her art, was most pronounced and made an immediate impression. Never giving the appearance of exertion, she placed her matchless tones in the remotest points of the Auditorium. Even her long-sustained and tapering notes were heard clearly by those who sat in the rear of the balcony. Of course, this is a tribute to the perfect acoustic properties of the hall and the diva was enthusiastic in her praise of them. "They simply are perfect," she said at the close of the concert.

Accompanying artist was Mr. Honer Samuels, pianist, who, by the way is the machine's husband, and Mr. Manuel Berenguer, tennist.

Galli-Curci gave every proof of her ability as a skilled artist. She added grace and refinement to her beautiful voice. The audience would not let her go and when she gave in one group "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "Swanee River," the crowd applauded her continuously for several minutes. She was most graceful and thoughtful, for on three occasions, remembering that for most of the time her back was to the persons sitting in the gallery beyond the stage, she turned to face them and sang numbers that they really might call her own.

It is possible for Galli-Curci to add to her popularity. Lowell contributed a generous share and she appreciated it. At all times she held her audience enthralled as her beautiful voice, bird-like and flute-like in quality, rang over the main floor and into the balcony and gallery. She has made the most of one of God's most perfect gifts to humankind.

The program ran as follows:

Building Up Your Reserve Strength

How to Store Up Fighting
Power to Resist Disease

Take Father John's Medicine

If you are strong and well your system has a reserve supply of fighting energy to draw on whenever you are exposed to colds or other disease germs, and this energy enables you to throw off and overcome the disease.

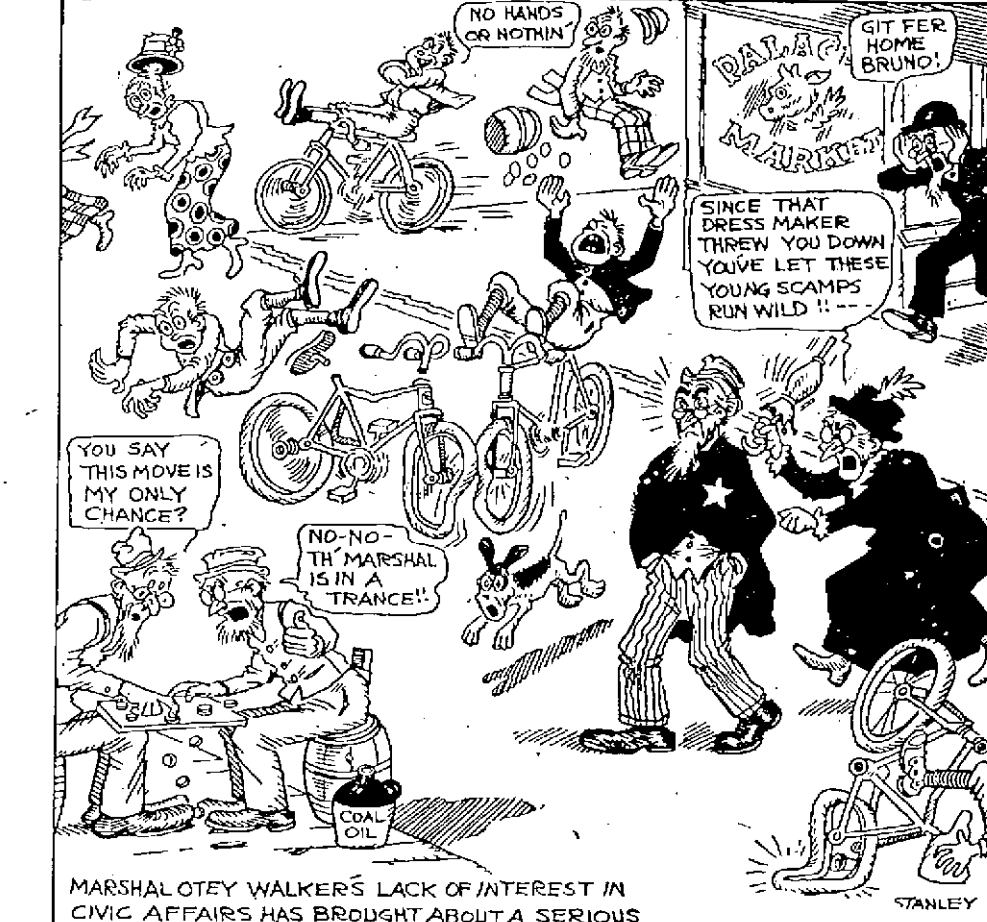

But if you find that you are tired, weak or run down in health this reserve supply has been exhausted and unless you can replace it at once you are in danger. Because it supplies the food substances which produce strength and enable you to withstand fatigue and hardship, Father John's Medicine is the commonsense tonic, energy-builder for you to take right now. It is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs. It is not a stimulant but a nourishing, flesh-builder by means of which the system stores up energy to be drawn on whenever it is needed.

CAMPAIN FOR FUNDS

Polish Falcons of Lowell
Plan Drive for Gymnasium Fund

On October 16 the Polish Falcons of Lowell are to launch a drive for funds for the erection and equipment of a modern gymnasium in their present quarters, 183 Lakeview avenue, for the purpose of caring for the athletic needs of their increasing membership. The Falcons are a comparatively new organization in this city but have advanced rapidly in recent years. Most notable among their achievements of late is the establishment of an Americanization class for foreign-born residents, presided over by competent instructors and doing excellent good among that element, not only in their own personal advantage, but in the interest of the city, the state and the country as well.

Francis Zacharar has been appointed chairman of a publicity committee and plans extensive newspaper and other advertising in view of the fact that the majority of Lowell citizens are not acquainted with the aims and objects of the Falcons. At present the chairman is preparing a circular which will be distributed to the business men of the city in an effort to secure their patronage. The first circular to be sent out states that there is much sad of criminal offenses and lawlessness among foreign-born in large American cities, and there is certainly no denial to be made that the unregimented American is invited to spend a small amount of time in writing to various big communities in America to find out for himself the unbiased statistics. He will find that the smallest percentage of trespassers against the country's laws are recorded among Polish immigrants, where there are Polish clubs existing. This is due to better supervision of the members of the Falcons by their executive committee than can be expected by any other Polish organization in America.

TO BE A FALCON, a man, a Pole, must be a tested gentleman of honorable conduct in every walk of life. By the training afforded at a Falcon's gymnasium, a young man becomes healthily-bodily and level-minded, and also a valuable asset to the country. The local committee, explained Mr. Zacharar, is anxious to make the Lowell branch of the Falcons one of the biggest in the country and for this reason the coming drive for a gymnasium will be conducted with earnest consideration to every detail.

GIANTS WIN 4 TO 3Election Commission Reinstated Twice
By City Council at Sensational and Epochal All-Night Session

At a special city council meeting called last night, but which did not adjourn until the long hand on the clock pointed to seven minutes before five this morning, the deposed board of election commissioners was reinstated. At 2:35 o'clock this morning the council voted to reinstate the commission, when it judged that body not guilty of the charges preferred against it by Mayor George H. Brown.

Less than a minute after the council had taken its action, the city messenger served upon the reinstated members notice that the mayor had once more removed them. The mayor said his charges for the second removal would be filed with the city clerk.

This action threw the council and 400 or more spectators into the greatest excitement, for previous to this first reinstating action a battle, which lasted for seven hours, had been waged between the mayor, the city solicitor and counsel for the deposed members.

While Attorney Albert S. Howard, counsel for the deposed board, and several members of the council expressed the belief that the latest action taken was invalid, they decided to leave nothing undone and after two more hours of deliberation the council once again reinstated the commission.

Following this action, the election commissioners fled with the city clerk a statement saying the required number of signatures to place Plan B upon the ballot had been certified by them. The council unanimously voted to instruct the city clerk not to certify the statement of state that the commission had been twice reinstated, that the council did not sustain any removal charges.

QUITS THE TEXTILE
SCHOOL FOR NAVY

Harry A. Weldon, a student in the Lowell Textile school, has severed his connection with that institution and enlisted in "The School of the Nation," Uncle Sam's navy. Weldon came to this city from Detroit, Mich., and registered in the course of textile engineering at the Moody street school, but he evidently became "navy blue" and this morning presented himself to the local recruiting officer in the Fairbank building. He will enroll in the yeoman branch of the service.

New chapters are being added so rapidly to that prince of best sellers, "Will Plan B Charter Go On the Ballot?" that it is difficult to keep one's reading up to date.

Another was written today when Mayor George H. Brown, for the third time, removed the original board of election commissioners—Messrs. McKenney, Allard, Braden and Maguire—and filed with the city clerk his reasons therefor as "Neglect of Duty."

Through his attorney, Albert S. Howard, formal application for another public hearing, before the city council, was filed by the commission with the city clerk at noon today.

"I do not expect to hear anything from it," said Mr. Howard. "It is just an anchor to windward, a stop-gap, for the election commission has been advised by me that it is a legally reinstated commission in fact and to hold the fort."

Asked whether he recognized the validity of either the second or third removals by the mayor, the attorney answered:

"Not for one minute, not for one minute."

One member of the original board went to Boston this forenoon, to the state house to see the secretary of the commonwealth, armed with a re-certification of a sufficient number of names on the petition.

This third in a series of removals and attending reinstatements that has been filed by the city council, with 25 percent of the population dizzy from attempts to follow the kaleidoscopic cycle of events bearing upon a petition for Plan B charter for Lowell, dropped from the mayoralty pen at just 10:45 o'clock this forenoon.

Earlier today, so much earlier in fact, that only milkmen and newspaper carriers were abroad, the city council, still in session after hours of deliberation, voted to remove the commission.

National Leaguers Continue to Out-class Their Rivals and Make It
Three Consecutive Victories

TOLO GROUNDS, N. Y., Oct. 7.

(By the Associated Press) The Giants won their third victory from the New York Yankees this afternoon by a score of 4 to 3. The world series now stands: Giants 3; Yankees 0. The contest was played in a driving rain.

The National Leaguers fell upon the submarine hurler, Carl Mays in the fifth inning, hammering him for five hits that scored four runs. The Yankees started the game like winners, hitting McQuillan hard but the Giant pitcher recovered himself, and for the next five innings did not yield the Yankees a hit. Ward crashed a home run for the Yankees in the seventh and the Yankees threatened again in the ninth but the Giants defense kept them away from the plate.

The McGraw men believe that Thursday's tie game will be the nearest the Yankees will come to smelling a victory in this embroiled series.

"We have got the Yankees on the dead run," said Helme Groh, midge third sacker of the Giants, and exponent of the bottle bat, "and we will keep them on the run. The Yankees were supposed to have a five-star pitching staff, but I have not seen it yet."

The crowd came early and the wet weather did not seem to rust the edge of its enthusiasm. Spectators placed newspapers upon the wet chairs and watched the threatening clouds.

Manager Huggins figured on Carl Mays to subdue the Giants with his submarine ball.

"Mays can pitch good enough ball to win," said Huggins, "but our fellow fans have to be patient and wait for him this year. Still they don't appear to be waiting behind any of our pitchers just yet."

Some of the Yankees wanted to see Joe Bush pitch today. They said they had been lucky behind "Bullet Joe" in 1919, but they were not so sure he was made to order for a dark day.

The drizzle turned to rain shortly before 1 o'clock and the crowd in the bleachers raised their umbrellas, while others sat beneath outspread newspapers which they held over their heads. The bleachers had piled its meretricious tins to the top of the golden day.

The groundkeepers had removed the canvas mats from the base paths and near one o'clock the Yankees came upon the field, while the band played "Hail, hail, the gang's all here."

The bleachers were nearly filled an hour before game time. The upper reserved stands showed a few vacant seats.

The Yankees went at their battling practice, with vim. Lindbergh shot up some looping curves and some fast ones for the home folks to try out their batting eyes, which had apparently failed them during the series.

Carl Mays, wrapped in a heavy sweater, took part in the practice.

LOWELL MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Robert Rusby of 25 Wameet street, this city, was almost instantly killed and his two companions, Henry Underwood of 30 Bourne street and Herbert Carter of 513 Lawrence street, both of this city, were injured last evening, when their automobile and a machine operated by Archie Barlow, of 126 Cabot street, collided on the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard in front of the Lawrence Hotel.

Thuen, Barlow and Henry St. Martin of Tremont street, Lowell, who were riding together, escaped without injuries. Both machines were badly damaged.

After the accident Rusby and his companions were rushed to the Lawrence General hospital, where Rusby died about ten minutes later. It was reported today that Underwood is suffering from injuries to his face, hands and legs, while Carter's injuries consist of a scalp laceration and abrasions about the shoulder and legs, but his condition is not considered serious.

The accident occurred at about 11:30 o'clock at a point in front of the Methuen armory. According to a report Continued to Page 3

Wireless Despatch From Moscow to Russian Delegates at London

Report Says Cousin Named Successor—No Confirmation of Report

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—A report that Sultan Mohammed VI of Turkey abdicated, was received early this afternoon by the Russian delegation here in a wireless despatch from Moscow. There is no confirmation of the report, but Moscow is believed to be in close communication with Constantinople and Ankara.

The Moscow despatch which repeated a message from Ankara, says that upon his abdication the sultan named as his successor his cousin, Abdul Medjid Effendi, who will be known as Medjid II.

Since the successful campaign of the Turkish national army against the Greeks there have been several reports of the abdication of Sultan Mohammed VI. In reply to these reports the sultan on Sept. 30, in a letter to a friend said:

"I shall continue to discharge my holy duties until the end. When the nationalists enter Constantinople, I shall have something pertinent to say to them."

Nevertheless, press despatches have continued to intimate his intention of giving way in favor of his cousin, Abdul Medjid Effendi.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE REACH AGREEMENT ON TURK PROBLEM

Declare Turkish Troops Shall Be Allowed to Occupy Eastern Thrace Only After Conclusion of Peace Treaty—Failure of Mudania Conference Would Bring Withdrawal of British Rhine Army—10,000 Greek Troops Massed in Thrace

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 7, 10:4 a.m. (By the Associated Press).—The principal hope of saving the armistice conference at Mudania from failure rested today with France, as the situation appeared here in Constantinople.

The allied diplomats were hoping that in the interest of peace the French general at the conference would receive instructions from Paris enabling the allies to present a united front.

French diplomats here pointed out that the failure of the Mudania conference would probably be followed immediately by the withdrawal of the British Rhine army from the German frontier, owing to the necessities of the Near Eastern situation.

ENGLAND AND FRANCE IN AGREEMENT

PARIS, Oct. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—Great Britain and France, as represented by Foreign Secretary Curzon and Premier Poincare, have agreed in principle that the troops of the Turkish nationalists shall be allowed to occupy eastern Thrace only after the conclusion of a peace treaty. This general agreement will now be submitted to the French and British cabinets, which are in session, and will be referred to Rome by the Italian representative here.

There is considered to be little doubt, however, that all will accept and that the details will be worked out this afternoon so that the allied generals at the Near Eastern situation.

WOULD BREAK UP ENTENTE

Sensation Caused by Letter From Andrew Bonar Law, Published in London

Upholds British Government's Attitude in the Near Eastern Crisis.

LONDON, Oct. 7. (By the Associated Press).—A sensation has been caused by a letter from Andrew Bonar Law, upholding the British government's attitude in the near eastern crisis, which is given in full in Kelly in all the London newspapers today.

The pronouncement is widely held to be equivalent to a direct threat to withdraw the British troops from the I.L.L. and completely terminate the entente unless France comes into line with the British policy in the near east.

Bonar Law's position as potential head of a potential conservative government would probably be his intimate relations with several of the present cabinet ministers are regarded as a win in his view special weight.

Indeed, it is surmised that the cabinet members, especially Prime Minister Lloyd George and Col. "at Secretary Churchill," had something more than mere previous knowledge of the launch of this utterance at the moment

FORBIDS LIQUOR ON ALL SHIPS

Atty-Gen. Daugherty's Decision Hits Foreign as Well as U. S. Vessels

Pres. Harding Orders Shipping Board Liners Made Dry at Once

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(By the Associated Press) All vessels, American and foreign owned, are prohibited from having liquor on board in American territorial waters under an interpretation of the prohibition amendment and the enforcement act handed down yesterday by the department of justice. Moreover, the transportation or sale of intoxicants on American craft,

FREAK IN RAILWAY CRASH

A steel rail bent in this curious manner was the result of a wreck on the Southern Pacific at Montalvo, Cal., in which 45 were hurt and one killed. Cars were thrown about like playing cards.

wherever operated, was held to be forbidden.

American territorial waters were construed to include those not only within the three-mile limit of continental United States, but also within the same limit of the Philippines, the Hawaiian Islands, Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Alaska. The law would not apply to the Panama Canal zone as that zone is specifically exempted by the statute itself.

So far as American ships are concerned, the sale or transportation of liquor will cease at once, or as soon as those vessels reach their home ports. In the case of foreign ships the decision will become operative as soon as the necessary regulations can be prepared and promulgated by the treasury department.

Court action looking to a final determination of the application of American dry laws to foreign ships entering American ports were foreseen by both Attorney General Daugherty and Chairman Lasker of the Shipping board.

Mr. Daugherty said he already had been advised that a case was about to be filed which would bring the issue to the supreme court.

Chairman Lasker was of the opinion that the first move of foreign lines would be to seek an injunction restraining the government from enforcing the law. He said it was reasonable to suppose that the courts would grant such an injunction with a result that foreign ships would continue to arrive with liquor on board until there was a final decision by the highest court. The attorney general said his department would co-operate in every effort to expedite a ruling by the supreme court.

Publication of the opinion of the department of justice followed a White House conference to which President Harding summoned Mr. Daugherty, Secretaries Hughes and Mellon and Chairman Lasker. Various phases of the situation were discussed, including the possible results of enforcement upon the international relations of the United States.

High administration officials explained that there was no course for the executive branch of the government except to enforce the law as interpreted by the legal department. The interpretation was based upon recent decisions of the supreme court in a case involving the authority of the United States to interfere with the transfer of a liquor cargo from one foreign ship to another in an American port.

In a divided opinion the court confirmed the authority of prohibition agents to prevent such a transfer. In the view of the attorney general, went so far as to hold that the 18th amendment and the Volstead act repealed a prior existing treaty with Great Britain.

Chairman Lasker predicted that enforcement of the law would operate to an immediate disadvantage of the American merchant marine and would make more necessary enactment of the ship subsidy bill if the American flag was to stay on the high seas. He believed the ruling would have great influence in congress when the subsidy bill was taken up.

An undoubted effect of enforcement, Mr. Lasker said, would be to hamper the board in its efforts to build up American shipping in the orient and South America. He expected Vancouver, B. C. to profit at the expense, particularly of Seattle and Portland, in the oriental trade and Montreal in the trans-Atlantic trade.

Irrespective of the decision of the supreme court, the shipping board chairman said foreign ships would have an advantage over American lines. As an illustration, he said that even if the court should hold that foreign ships might not bring liquor into American territorial waters, they could sell up to the three-mile limit on their inward voyage and dump overboard any remaining stock.

In discussing the opinion, Mr. Lasker emphasized that he was viewing the situation as it existed and that he spoke neither as "wet" or as a "dry."

Sale of liquor on shipping board vessels was based on an opinion of the general counsel of the board, who held that it did not contravene the prohibition laws. Opening of the ship's hold was ordered on a vote of the board, with Commissioner Frederick L. Thompson casting the only dissenting vote.

Orders for enforcement of prohibition laws, as construed by Mr. Daugherty, were issued by President Harding late yesterday. In a letter to Secretary Mellon the president requested that due notice be given to the masters of all privately owned ships operating under the American flag and that regulations for the enforcement as to foreign ships be formulated and that such notice be given to the agents of foreign lines "concerning American ports or docking therein as becomes the circumstances and commits us to the full enforcement of the law."

Writing to Mr. Lasker, the executive said the transportation and the service of intoxicating liquors on all ships, owned, operated or leased by the shipping board, should be prohibited at once, and all transportation, either as cargo or ships stores must cease at once on ships now in home ports and on ships at sea or in foreign ports immediately after docking in home ports.

"This will enable the disposal of ships' stores for the lawful purposes contemplated under the statutes," the letter added. "The secretary of the treasury will issue equivalent notice to private ships under American operation."

Quoting the supreme court to the effect that the intent of the national prohibition policy was to "stop the whole business" of trafficking in intoxicants, the attorney general said the scope of the statutes enacted to carry out that policy, undoubtedly must include all "territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States." Under such interpretation, he held, American ships, wherever they might be located, would come under the national laws.

TO CUT APPROPRIATIONS

Retrenchment Planned by Dracut Voters — Police Raids Net $1000

The voters of Dracut are going to face the music.

Leading citizens of the prosperous town of homes and farms close to Lowell are going to stop appropriating large sums of town money for the conduct of certain important departments that have shown no desire to retrench for a year or two.

More than one citizen is ready with the "first and only warning," and yet very little extended or bitter criticism of the handling of town money and affairs in general this year is heard in Dracut, no matter where you travel or to whom you talk. It is all the more the money was appropriated, there was use for most of it, and no one really regrets the money that went for better roads and other improvements long desired and now obtained after the necessary outlay of town funds.

But Dracut is going to retrench with a vengeance next year.

Dracut voters plan to cut next season's road appropriations to the bone. If necessary, in order to shave down that terrible tax rate.

Less money will be spent in other departments as well, if present plans by the "Conservatives" go through. The "Liberals" have had the reins this year, so the "Conservatives" say. Money has been spent a little too lavishly to suit some of those who hate to see a tax rate jump upward every year instead of taking a tumble once in a while. So the "Conservatives" are going to try and lower the mark on the tax rate thermometer. And they will have some job ahead of them, according to the "Liberals" element, although neither of the clans of friendly townspeople say that they can find any money actually wasted this year, and therefore there is some consolation for the "Conservatives," who really admit that the town of Dracut has got about all it could expect for the money used for various departmental works.

Police Expenses

Police work in the town of Dracut this year has been less costly than last year, but more work has been performed by the police officials, according to records furnished the Sun today by a town authority, who knows where the money provided for conducting and supporting the police department has been spent.

Last year, 1921, was probably the liveliest in the history of Dracut police circles. Much work was performed in the vicinity of the parks about Lake Mascopie. Owing to some friction in town official circles and charges of poor discipline in the case of omission two "specials" whose work with the Dracut police department had been short-lived, the results of the previous year's work in cleaning up unsavory sections and bringing offenders into court, was not notable, although the police department record was nothing to be ashamed of.

This year, however, under more active leadership and with some degree of real system, the order of the day, the Dracut districts where trouble used to start early and often, fair weather or foul, winter and summer, have been practically "cleaned up." This work has required considerable time this summer—also considerable money—but the returns have not been poor.

Chairman Bert A. Cluff is satisfied that the work of the police department this season has been excellent in almost every respect.

Other town officials agree with Mr. Cluff. And of course Henry G. Coburn, the veteran member of the Dracut police department, agrees with everybody on that point, too.

And $1000 received by the town in police court fines this year is further proof, if any were necessary, that the changes in the police department personnel this year really amounted to something. When Mr. Cluff became chairman of the selectmen again he decided to put some system into the "P.D." and he couldn't find anybody who suited him any better than Henry Coburn, and he made him superintendent of police. The other two members of the board of selectmen, Samuel Pillsbury and George Parker.

The appropriations this year have not been overdrawn, and on more than a few schedules advisory officersholders will have substantial reports to offer to the townspeople at the annual meeting next spring.

Money For Roads

It is felt that the amount of money expended for Dracut roads this year will not be exceeded in 1923, and that it will be even possible to cut down the appropriation lists for the coming year. Mr. Cluff is not the only town official who believes Dracut could stand a decided slash from present figures covering road and bridge work and still keep them in good shape.

Other citizens say that $30,000 will about cover this year's new work and repaving of old roads, bridges, culverts, sidewalks, etc., and that it may go even higher than that. The $30,000 estimate is considered small when the amount of work already accomplished is tallied up.

The most extensive work, of course, has been finished, but town workmen, headed by Supt. William Shanks, are still at work on the wind-up of that extensive piece of work over on Lakeview avenue, from Conney Corner toward the lake section.

The original appropriation for this work was only $2000, but all of that has been spent and it is predicted that $4000 will hardly cover the job when the totals are added up. However, it is work that the townspeople pretty generally approve of, and is going right along without a let-up.

That road construction work over on Pleasant street has been finished, and

Why Endure That Aching Back

DON'T let a bad back keep you miserable. You know there must be something wrong when every day brings a dull, nagging backache and that tired, all-dragged-out feeling. So why not find the cause and correct it? Chances are, you have given no thought to your kidneys; yet more than likely they are at fault. When the kidneys weaken, the blood becomes overloaded with poisons that well kidneys would filter off. These poisons upset the whole system and it's little wonder one has torturing backache, sharp, stabbing pains at every sudden move, and distressing bladder irregularities. There may be headaches, too, with dizzy spells, "jumpy" nerves and an irritable feeling. Then don't risk serious or chronic kidney trouble. Help your weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills—before it is too late. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

GUNS BESIDE BIBLE

Itinerant Evangelist Speaks at McAlester, Okla.—Klansmen on Hand

McALESTER, Okla., Oct. 7.—The Rev. W. B. Smith, itinerant evangelist, opened his services in Latimer county last night by removing a loaded gun from his hip pocket and placing it beside the open Bible. After the invocation, a second gun was placed on the left of the Scriptures.

The meeting was carried to a normal conclusion without incident notwithstanding previous threats, anonymously communicated to the preacher that he would not be permitted to speak.

Mr. Smith told his audience that "a gun is a good thing, but it is not good to hold his meetings."

Shortly after services were under way, two automobiles loaded with men arrived in the vicinity of the Ku Klux Klan building.

All arrangements have been completed for the annual pilgrimage of the C. M. A. C. to the graves of the dead in the cemetery on Monday afternoon, providing the weather is favorable. The members of the association will assemble at their hall in Pawtucket street at 1 o'clock and a half hour later, headed by Reginald Miller, will make their way to the cemetery. The members of the association will be met at the cemetery by a delegation of legion men, all members of the C. M. A. C.

NO ACTION TAKEN AT BEAMERS' MEETING

Eighteen members of the Beavers' union, among them several officers of the organization, attended a meeting which was held last evening in Trades & Labor hall in Central street for the purpose of discussing the recent action of the union in voting to secede from the United Textile Workers of America.

The meeting was presided over by Organizer Thomas J. Horgan of the U. T. W. of A., who stated today that the matter was discussed at length, but no action was taken. The different matters pertaining to the vote of the union were discussed and finally it was decided to call another meeting for next Friday night at which time it is expected the matter will be settled. It is felt that the union will vote to return to the U. T. W. of A.

TURK PAPERS SUPPORT DEMANDS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 7. (By the Associated Press).—The local Turkish newspapers are publishing fiery editorials supporting the Kemalists demands. A characteristic example of the content is that published by the Daily Aksham yesterday, which said:

"Turkey needs above all things, speed in the establishing of an effective peace. We must not allow the national cause to drag any longer. Our army cannot wait."

"We desire peace and are determined to lose no time in getting it. The Turkish army broke the enemy's army in a fortnight and cannot wait another fortnight for peace. The greatest quality shown in our victory was its swiftness, and the best quality in our peace will likewise be swiftness."

CHEERFUL NEWS

Some young women, who were connected with the strike at the Hamilton Mfg. Co., brought cheering news last night, by announcing this morning when they reported that a great many women strikers had been sent for by the mill officials and instructed to report for work Monday morning.

The strikers who are being called back to the mill are not being released, as they are being hired as new help, for they have to submit to the physical examination required of every new employee. This does not seem to bother them, however, for their sole ambition is to work. It is expected that it will be a matter of a few weeks before all the girls at the Hamilton are back at work.

deliberation, argument, declamation and debate, reinstated the original board of commissioners. The mayor summarily removed the commissioners again and the council checked-mated by a second reinstatement.

After a few hours of sleep the mayor returned to his office looking somewhat better, but still not as well as he was when he left. He is a great believer in the third-time-is-a-charm adage, and whang! out went the council, and the council was reinstated.

In announcing his action of reinstatement, the mayor again temporarily appointed a new commission, consisting of Messrs. O'Donnell, Kiernan and Gould. He said they will file a final certification with the secretary of state, but all the while a sufficient number of genuine signatures on the charter petition.

As far as can be learned the last hour for filing such certifications with the secretary of the commonwealth, provided that the matter in question is all the matter in question, is at 12 noon, Nov. 1, in 12 noon, today. Whatever communications are to be forwarded to the office of the attorney-general, or from the temporary board, however, will be sent direct to the office of the attorney-general, or from the temporary board, however, will be sent direct to the office of the attorney-general.

The original board did not meet at any hall this morning and there is no belief they would take possession of the office again until Monday. Mr. McKelvey, chairman of the board, said he had very little to say. None of his fellow-commissioners was around.

The office of the secretary of state, as well as that of the attorney-general, must be fairly choked with Lowell communications by this time. The secretary has received several notices of certification, each one giving the file to the other. First, there was a certification from the original board, then the certification from the temporary board, and now the certification from the original board.

Out of all this turmoil into which the municipality has been plunged, the one question that really matters is not yet answered:

"Will Plan B go on the ballot?" No one knows. Some say it will, some say it won't, but there is more than unanimity in the belief that future chapters in the serial will be written in Boston, either in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth, or in the rooms of the attorney-general.

While the temporary board was in session, rechecking names from affidavits, it also conducted some routine business, among which was the approval of $2000 worth of monthly departmental bills. Whether the approving signatures of this, it faces several questions that must be decided later.

Another question that seems bound to arise is, who will be in charge of the registration sessions, scheduled to begin on Monday next.

LOWELL MAN KILLED IN ACCIDENT

port made at the Methuen police station, Barabault was coming back from Lawrence with St. Martin. When a point was reached in front of the army, the machine collided with another that was going towards Lawrence. The second machine was owned by George L. Underwood of 39 Bourne street, this city, and operated by Henry Underwood of the same address, and containing Busby and Carter. The Underwood car went quite a distance before it stopped, crashing into a fence.

The three men were rushed to the hospital by a passing machine, which was stopped by Earl and Raymond Stevens, Barabault and St. Martin were able to drive into the street and this morning Barabault reported at the police station, but he was informed that inasmuch as the accident occurred in Methuen, his duty was to report to the Methuen police. It was stated at the Methuen police station this afternoon that a report of the accident had been made there.

Robert Busby was a well known and highly respected resident of this city. Besides a wife, Mary (Hunt) Busby, he leaves five sons, William E. George L., Edwin F., James H. and Joseph R.; two brothers, Thomas Busby of this city and Samuel Langhorne of Pottsville, Pa.; and two sisters, Jennie Busby and Mrs. Frederick Buck. WAS FINED $100 FOR CARRYING PISTOL

Ralph H. Strauss was fined $100, the minimum fine, in district court this morning on the charge of carrying a pistol without a permit. As he was unable to pay the fine this morning he was remanded to the county jail at East Cambridge until he can do so. He was supposed to have received a check this week that would cover his fine but it has not arrived as yet. He will remain in jail until the check arrives.

According to the story told by a woman who lives on Tucker street, Strauss was in the habit of coming to her house to see her son. She did not desire him as a guest and told him to stay away. Later he called at the house armed with a big .38 calibre revolver and cartridge belt and shoved a note under the door demanding that it be opened. The woman called the police and they arrested the man and took him to the station.

Strauss said that he had borrowed the gun from a friend in Boston who wanted him to have his picture taken with the gun and belt on. He said that he had been a soldier most of his life and was accustomed to guns. He further told the court that he had been in the hospital at Park Hill hospital in Boston for disabled soldiers and that he had only been discharged from there a short time ago.

TELEPHONE ALARM

A slight blaze in a clothes closet at 31 Smith street was responsible for a telephone alarm at 10:23 o'clock last evening. The alarm from box 419 at 7:25 o'clock last evening was for a dump fire on Meadowcroft street.

Board Twice Reinstated

den of the deposited commission, that Mayor Brown had come to him in his office on the night of Sept. 25, the first night that the commission worked on the certification, asking that he do what he could to defeat the petition.

The council first took up routing matters but came to the principal business without much delay. When advised that a hearing was to be held, Solicitor Tierney requested he be given time to prepare his case. For a while it looked as if the hearing was going to be put off until today. When Councilor Gallagher was informed that the temporary commission had filed a statement with the secretary of state to the effect that the petition was a fraudulent one and that it had asked the secretary to withhold it from the ballot, a new factor was developed. It was brought out that the time for making final disposition on the question was Oct. 7 at 12 o'clock. Under these conditions Mr. Gallagher moved that the hearing be held at once. Attorney Tierney requested a half hour to get his facts together. The case was granted a recess was taken while a luncheon was served.

Attorney Albert S. Howard was very insistent on the manner in which the hearing be conducted, and bitter verbal clashes between him and Mr. Tierney were frequent. Mr. Braden's testimony brought forth storms of laughter and applause.

Before the case had gone very far Councilor Gallagher requested the temporary board be required to be present. Only one member could be found, or at least only one was noticeable. No questions were asked of him.

The case was completed at 2 o'clock. Attorney Howard made no argument and offered no defense, saying he believed his clients innocent of any guilt. Attorney Tierney used up the greater part of a half hour in summing up the case.

After he finished, the council unanimously voted the evidence was insufficient for removal. The board was reinstated and ousted again in a few seconds.

On motion of Councilor Sadler, the messenger was instructed to find the mayor and tell him the city council wanted his new charges filed at once and that an immediate hearing was to be given. The messenger reported back that he had informed the mayor, who asked, "What for?" and thereupon left the building.

The council then reinstated the board for a second time and attended to other business in connection with it as meeting above.

The meeting in detail:
The meeting was called to order at 8:17. The first business was the reading of minor petitions for light and telephone poles. There were no remonstrants to any of the petitions, all of which were granted. Thomas C.

LEES APPEARED IN FAVOR OF A SWITCH TO BE INSTALLED AT JOHN AND MERRIMACK STREETS.

H. E. Coburn appeared as a remonstrant, saying the street car company had right to use the property as his family had deeds of all that property dating back to 1761. The switch is in connection with the proposed new loop of the railway company. The matter was referred to the city solicitor.

Petitions were read for garage licenses. Petitions for personal and domestic were referred to the city solicitor and claim investigator. A number of other petitions were sent and referred to various committees and departments.

The Election Commission

This matter of the election commission was then taken up. President Bagley read the announcements of removals and the reasons therefor as filed by Mayor George A. Brown.

Councilor Gallagher moved that the removed commission be given an immediate hearing. It was seconded by Councilor Adams.

When City Solicitor Tierney was advised that an immediate hearing was suggested he said he had not heard of the proposed hearing until he read it after midnight from the Boston Herald. He said he might be ready by tomorrow.

Asks For Action

Atty. Albert S. Howard, for the deposited commission, requested an immediate hearing on the ground that the commission had important work to perform next week.

Mr. Tierney said he was surprised that his request was not immediately granted.

Atty. Howard again stressed the importance of an immediate hearing.

Councilor Gallagher suggested that the hearing be held tonight if possible, but that he was willing to give both sides a chance.

Atty. Howard then called upon Atty. Councilor J. O'Neill, who explained that the petition for Plan B had to be in the hands of the secretary of state 30 days prior to November 7, state election day. He said he had been in conference with Assistant Attorney General Boynton, who gave him his information.

Atty. O'Neill then asked Mr. Tierney several questions relative to the methods and work of the new board. Several more questions were first brought up by Mr. O'Neill. "Tom, do you know this means my job? You haven't the time to serve. Go down tomorrow and work an hour or so. Go down and anything in your power to prevent this petition from going through. These are the terms."

Mayor Brown Examined

The mayor was then called. He outlined what had taken place between himself and the election commission. Mayor Brown then told of the conversation with Mr. Braden referred to above. He said he asked Mr. Braden how many names had been certified on the first day. The mayor said that other than that, they had no conversation.

The city solicitor continued to object.

Immediate Hearing Voted

When it was brought out that the temporary board already had made a report on the matter, Councilor Gallagher moved that an immediate hearing be granted. It was seconded by Councilor Adams and carried.

Councilor Gallagher called for the report of the temporary commission. It was read. Mr. Tierney was given one hour to prepare his case. This was the time asked for by him.

New Street Car Loop

During the wait the matter of the new street car loop was again taken up. Mr. Lees was asked several questions relative to traffic on the lines. Councilor Adams asked when Lowell was to get a five cent fare. Mr. Lees said he would not answer the question until he had a ruling manager. By a vote of 11 to 1 it was voted to pass the ordinance granting the street railway company its franchise to construct the loop, now under consideration, through French and Brookings streets.

Big Hearing Resumed

The election commission matter went on. Councilor Gallagher moved that the city clerk instruct the members of the temporary commission to appear at once. It was seconded by Councilor Adams and carried. Councilor Gallagher said that if the messenger returned and reported that the new commission would not appear, some action would be taken.

At 9:47 the meeting was again called to order. Councilor Gallagher requested his motion be withdrawn, which asked for the appearance of the temporary commission inasmuch as the members could not be found.

Mr. Tierney Opened Case

Solicitor Tierney opened for the city by saying that for some time the election commission had been complained against. He said the mayor feels the least the commission could do was to give faithful service. "The mayor is out to stop a scandalous forging of names," he declared.

Mr. Tierney attempted to read some letters received from citizens. Attorney Howard objected, and he was sustained by a vote of the council. The solicitor then outlined the present case at length.

MR. TIERNEY SHOWED THAT THE PETITION WAS FILED ON SEPT. 25 AND CHARGED THAT THE PETITION WAS GIVEN BACK TO MR. DESMOND ON THE 26TH, SO THAT HE COULD FILE IT WITH THE CITY CLERK.

Mr. Tierney said he would attempt to show in the courts, if necessary, that the elections commission sent for Mr. Desmond, and that a conspiracy existed.

Regarding the writing on the petition, Clerk J. Omer Allard of the board said that Mr. Desmond came to the commission and wrote on the back of it in the presence of him (Mr. Allard), that he filed the petition with the clerk and that he (Mr. Allard) took back the petition to the commission.

After more than two hours of examination Mr. Tierney finished with Mr. McKelvey. Attorney Howard then took the witness.

Mr. McKelvey said that on the Saturday previous to the filing of the petition he asked Mr. Tierney three questions, which were: Who should be done with the petition? How long would the commission have to certify the names? And what should be done with the petition? He said the questions had not been answered by the solicitor, although promises had been made that they would be on Monday. On Monday the questions still were unanswered, he said.

McKelvey's Statement Brings Applause

The room rang with applause when Mr. McKelvey was allowed to make a statement of his own free will. He said he had served under mayors for 12 years and this was the first mayor that ever called him into his office to tell him what to do. Another outburst of applause greeted this statement.

He was then re-examined by Mr. Tierney. At the end of three hours Mr. McKelvey was allowed to leave the stand.

Joseph H. Maguire Called

Joseph H. Maguire was the next member called. Mr. Tierney took the witness. Mr. Allard was next called to the stand. They had little to add to the testimony already given.

Thomas H. Braden was next to testify. He told of Mayor Brown coming to his office on the night the petition was filed and saying: "Tom, do you know this means my job? You haven't the time to serve. Go down tomorrow and work an hour or so. Go down and anything in your power to prevent this petition from going through. These are the terms."

Mr. Tierney attempted to read some letters received from citizens. Attorney Howard objected, and he was sustained by a vote of the council. The solicitor then outlined the present case at length.

HEATED IN THE REQUEST. AT 2:12 A.M. A RECESS OF TEN MINUTES WAS DECLARED, AND A LUNCHEON WAS SERVED IN THE MAYOR'S RECEPTION ROOM.

Howard Cross-Examines Brown

Atty. Howard then cross-examined Mayor Brown. He asked him questions relative to the appointment of Joseph A. Cloutier as a temporary member of the board. He was asked if he knew that three members of the board could transact business.

Mr. McKelvey asked City Solicitor Tierney why he called him on the phone on the day he had been removed and told him that he had not been removed when, as a matter of fact he (McKelvey) had the removal papers in his pocket? The solicitor said that he didn't know Mr. McKelvey had been removed at that time.

Atty. Howard said he would offer no argument as it was evident that the charges against the commission had not been sustained.

Tierney Tilted Out at Braden

Atty. Tierney then started his argument. He said that if he were a member of the council he would vote to remove any member of the commission, namely Mr. Braden. He said the attitude of Mr. Braden before the council showed he was unfit for service.

Mr. Braden then asked to be allowed to say a few words. He said he did not believe any member of the board did anything but what he thought was right. He said he would do in the future as he had done in the past and that he would do no more than what he was asked.

Councilor Gallagher for Reinstatement

Councilor Gallagher then addressed the council. He brought out the most prominent points of the testimony and reviewed them. He called attention to the fact that the mayor's own commission came to a very close margin of names necessary for the petition to appear on the ballot. He expressed the belief that the election commission had done its full duty as required and moved that the evidence presented did not sustain the charges. The council unanimously on a roll call vote.

The members of the commission were all unanimously reinstated. They were voted on separately. This vote was counted at just 3:35 o'clock.

On behalf of the commission Mr. McKelvey thanked the members.

Commissioners Again Removed

Immediately following the taking of the vote the commissioners received notices that they were again removed.

Councilor Gallagher made a motion that the clerk of the board be instructed to notify the secretary of state that the council had reinstated the old board and that the report of temporary board was erroneous.

Atty. Howard made the suggestion that the removed members apply in writing for an immediate hearing.

The council then acted on Councilor Gallagher's motion. It was unanimously carried.

The mayor notified the council that he would file his charges against the commission later.

Wants New Charges at Once

Councilor Queenan moved that the mayor be ordered to file his charges at once. It was seconded and the messenger sent to deliver the message.

Councilor Gallagher then moved that the messenger be instructed to notify the mayor that the council would hear the charges at 1:10. The mayor did not appear.

Councilor Gallagher stated that the mayor was in the building when first notified of the council's desire.

The petitions for immediate hearing by the commissioners were then read. They did not waive any rights but insisted upon the invalidity of removal.

The messenger stated he had notified the mayor that the council wanted him to appear and present his charges. The mayor answered "What for?" and left the building, said Mr. Braden.

Councilor Gallagher moved that inasmuch as the mayor had not appeared to present charges and that there was no evidence of misconduct by the new commission, the evidence be deemed insufficient. It was unanimously voted.

HEATED FOR SECOND TIME

The members once more were unanimously reinstated. The names were voted on separately. This vote was taken at 4:23 a.m.

It was then moved that the city clerk be instructed to notify the secretary of state that it had reinstated the board. It was carried. The elections commission then filed with the city clerk a statement that it had certified the required number of names to the petition. It was then voted to notify the secretary of state as to the act.

It was also voted to notify the secretary of state that the council had accepted the report of the removed election commission.

WASHINGTON VISITOR GIVES IMPRESSIONS OF THE NEW LOWELL MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM

Says in Many Aspects it is Unique and One of the Best in Country—The Cost Less Than That of Similar Buildings Elsewhere—Plans for Extra Session of Congress—Senator Walsh to Speak Here Before Close of Campaign

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 7.—Looking back over a vacation trip in which New England was the objective point, your correspondent finds that the magnificent Memorial Auditorium in Lowell stands out as the finest and most distinctive tribute to American patriotism yet erected, perhaps in the entire country. States and other cities and towns, have built monuments, bridges, planted trees, nipped out weeds and done many things that will stamp on the memory of generations yet to come, the noble work of the American boys in wars now of the past, but the Memorial building which Lowell has erected in their memory will do all this and a great deal more in a very unique way.

It is not only a memorial well worthy of the men to whom tribute is thus paid, but it is a structure of rare beauty—a work of art in itself—and it furnishes the adequate to meet the needs of the great community that dwells along the banks of those two historic rivers, the Merrimack and the Concord, both closely associated with the history of the nation, from the days of its earliest settlement.

With another visitor friend, I was piloted through the building and noted the rare beauty and symmetry everywhere apparent in its classic lines and elegant proportions. The circular design with its two wide corridors around the main hall affording so many easy exits and so much space for dressing rooms and other conveniences, is a feature so ingenious and so rare that it stands unrivaled by anything I have seen in the rectangular buildings, even among the most modern. The Memorial Auditorium, and then the pretty gallery back of the stage seems to have been specially designed for great musical events such as those of a grand choral society; and for school graduations, the auditorium is a perfect model. The visitor notes the simple beauty of the marble Hall of Trophies, which one can imagine filled with battle flags and other mementos of the struggles in which Lowell's heroes engaged. Both halls are superbly decorated to harmonize with the Memorial purposes of the building. The commodious quarters provided for the veterans of the various wars, although in the more remote part of the building, will gather together the venerable survivors of the companies that went out from Lowell and made a record for heroism that will be an inspiration to future generations. But the exterior of the building is so beautiful and attractive as to rivet the attention of the visitor, and even on the first glance to declare its purpose. The descriptions seem to take up the echoes of our struggles for liberty and send them reverberating down the ages.

And do the citizens of Lowell appreciate the fact that they have got much more than money out of the building, than is usually the case in erecting memorials? Familiar as I am with the cost of public buildings as erected by the government in the capital of the nation and elsewhere, where a million dollars seems to go precious little way, the erection of that splendid structure in Lowell for a million dollars impressed me as something extraordinary in the way of judicious expenditure of public money. Surely the commission, under whose supervision the work was planned and accomplished, has done wonders in the way of meeting the requirements of architectural beauty and public utility in the erection of a splendid permanent memorial that will serve as a glorious tribute to the heroic dead, as one generation succeeds another.

I wished I could have seen Chairman John H. Harrington of the building commission to congratulate him upon having had a leading part in planning this magnificent building and directing its construction. The city of Lowell is to be congratulated upon the possession of one of the most beautiful and most serviceable memorial buildings in the entire country.

Senator Walsh to Speak Here

The latest intimations regarding an extra session in November show it is still in doubt. We hear that President Harding is anxious to call one immediately after election, in order that the Shipping bill may be brought up and cleared from the slate before the work on appropriation bills is taken up. We hear, also, that congress doesn't want to be called back before December 1st, and that it is being postponed into the late spring. It seems pretty well understood that neither republicans or democrats want an extra session, provided the republicans hold their control of congress. In case the democrats win out, they would undoubtedly delay the passage of majorities that will vote so to control legislation for the coming fiscal year. But although they expect to greatly cut down the republican majority they do not expect to regain control this fall, but are training their guns on the 1923 campaign when they hope to get back congress and the presidency. Senator Walsh of Massachusetts has expressed great faith that such an end may be thus accomplished. He is now in the west campaigning as chairman of the democratic senate committee. He will be back to New England the last week in October and make many speeches in Massachusetts just prior to the election.

Texas women are coming to the front if reports from that state can be relied on. A woman is said to have been abducted from her home and whipped by masked women whom she described as "the Lady Ku Klux Klan."

German Ambassador Back
The German ambassador has now established himself in the embassy at Washington "just as if nothing had happened" during these long years since the war began. Society visitors here say it is exactly as if nothing will be the scene of suitable hospitality, but that it is to be squarely and plainly furnished, to meet the needs of the new German political regime, except a number of ancestral furnishings that are being shipped. The ambassador, who left from his splendid home in Essen.

The postal cat that holds the place of honor in Catdom of the post-office department, has had a real origin on catnip which was sent him by special delivery from "a friend" in Michigan.

Tom's fame as a rat catcher extends over many years, that fact is an allowance was made by the department officials for his "patron" but it did not include catnip. Hearing this, a woman in Lansing, whose name by the way is "Mrs. Kitty Thomas," according to her signature, sent Tom a letter scented it through all the wrappings, and is said to have pounced on it in a way that did his rat-catching record credit.

BIG LINERS MAY QUIT BOSTON

City in Danger of Losing Her European Passenger Service

Agent for the Cunard Line Sounds Warning at Hearing Yesterday

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—The Cunard Steamship company, which has maintained a high class passenger service between Boston and Liverpool since 1890, is likely to discontinue its service to this port and move to Philadelphia or Baltimore on account of a lack of cargo here.

Shows Situation

This statement was made by Edward H. Hargarty, freight agent for the Cunard line, at the hearing before the interstate commerce commission yesterday. It indicates more clearly than anything else said during the five days the hearing has lasted, that commerce has been crippled at this port almost to the point of extinction. Mr. Hargarty said that he had collected Boston business all over the west, but could not get it on account of the high freight rate or differential at Boston. The company was obliged to operate its passenger ships whether it got cargoes or not, but it could not continue to operate at a loss. For that reason, he said, the company had recently been taken in Baltimore and Philadelphia in an effort to get business because the freight rate there was lower than here and business was moving in that direction.

On Sept. 20, he said, one of the Cunard ships sailed from Boston with only 467 tons of cargo. Her capacity was 16,000 tons. As a result, he declared, the company had to buy sand to put in the ship for ballast.

Established Here in 1810

Asked why the company did not run liners from Philadelphia instead of Boston, he replied that the company had established its business here in 1810 and considered its New England passenger traffic valuable, but there was great danger that this service would be discontinued if sufficient cargo could not be procured at this port to make the business profitable.

W. J. McLaughlin, freight manager of the international mercantile marine, corroborated Mr. Hargarty's statement of a lack of business at this port. He said that the company had been losing money since 1913.

Herman A. Norton, superintendent of Commonwealth pier, testified that the big state pier that cost the commonwealth of Massachusetts $4,500,000 to build and equip, had been used to only 30 per cent of its capacity since 1913.

Garcelon Testified

William F. Garcelon, agent for the Arkwright club, representing 120 of the leading cotton mills in New England, testified that the cotton business, which is also affected by the differential, thus showing that Boston can get the business when not handicapped by the differential.

Charles B. Baldwin, transportation manager of the United Shoe Machinery Co., testified that his company preferred to ship its goods from Boston rather than New York, because it cost from $150,000 to $200,000 more a year to ship by the latter port. On account of a lack of shipping at Boston they were compelled to ship from New York, he declared.

City Councils Played Ball

In a recent letter I mentioned the outing at Mountain Rock at which the Lowell city council entertained the citizens of Lawrence. It was reported to be one grand drink but when the bills came in they totaled $322, which was supposed to cover everything. They had a ball game and at the end of each inning all stopped to have another drink. Nobody knew which side won as the umpire's eyesight failed the middle of the game and some of the players were disqualified later for a similar reason.

MRS. M. MACSWINEY

Will Address Mass Meeting at Associate Hall—Other Speakers on Program

Final arrangements have been made for the reception to Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, wife of the late lord mayor of Cork, and Nurse Lydia Kearns, who will speak at Associate Hall tomorrow evening in aid of the families of the men who are still fighting for a republic in Ireland. Both speakers are to address a meeting in Lawrence in the afternoon and will arrive here in time for the meeting at Associate hall which is to open at 8 o'clock. Accompanying the two principal speakers will be Capt. Thomas O'Connor of the I.R.A. and L. J. Madden of New York.

Mrs. MacSwiney has been active in the Irish republican cause since 1916. Since the days following the signing of the Irish treaty by the Irish delegates to London Mrs. MacSwiney was an ardent opponent to the Free State and has continued in the cause of the republic. Her history since then is well known. Even those who disagreed with her, mention her only with respect.

Nurse Lydia Kearns also took up the fight against England in 1916 and has been active in the cause of the republic since then. After the signing of the present treaty she also took the side of the Irish republicans and fought with the small band from the Four Courts in Dublin. She was sentenced to ten years in prison and was lodged in the workhouse in England. As a result of a hunger strike, she came so weak that the prison officials thought she would die. Then she was transferred to Mountjoy Jail in Dublin from which she later escaped.

The meeting is in charge of a committee of Mrs. MacSwiney and Mrs. Kearns will be the principal speakers, but Captain O'Connor, I.R.A., and Mr. Madden will also deliver addresses.

HOUSEKEEPERS ARE IN A QUANDARY

When kindling wood is scarce and you want to start a brisk blaze in the kitchen stove, the household bug known as an old newspaper or magazine torn up in convenient strips and tightly wound. You can cook an egg-and-toast breakfast in less than five minutes with the "newspaper rolls."

There is a shortage—and a heavy one—of waste paper at the present time. All of the wholesale paper dealers and junk collectors in Lowell interviewed by a Sun man today, said so in emphatic terms. The paper mills cannot begin to get enough material of this kind to "work up" into the commonest of assorted papers and cardboard for which there is a lively demand. The price has mounted until in some sections of New England it is bringing as high a price as new wood pulp.

And a year ago one would almost be forced to pay cartage to have old papers and magazines removed as worthless rubbish.

This is the situation as it will be presented at the fall conference of the paper industry at Chicago the week of October 15, when some 200 organizations of paper manufacturers and merchants will hold their fall business meetings as part of the paper-week of the American Paper and Pulp association.

The book paper and paper board manufacturers are particularly interested in the book paper mills. Old magazines and newspapers are sold in newspapers and mixed paper.

Book paper mills in the middle west are today paying as high as three cents a pound for good magazine stock, while mixed paper, such as is used by the makers of paper board, is bringing 1 1/2 a ton. The price of book paper has been normal to continue long.

Lowell collectors of waste papers and magazines are today rapidly cleaning up the local supply and cannot get enough of it to suit them. The Sun interviewed several collectors known to many housekeepers on the "junk lines." As said that prices had advanced anywhere from 25 to 50 per cent, during the past two weeks or more. The average collector is now paying 50 cents per hundred weight for newspapers, tied in handy pick-up bundles. A little lower price is offered for the mixed papers that are not bundled.

Magazines are bringing at the home doors all anywhere from one cent to one cent and one-quarter a pound, and 1 1/2 a hundred pounds is sometimes paid for fine magazine stocks.

Of course the house-to-house collectors have to make a little profit, and they find the wholesalers willing to pay them considerably more for good material. The junk men must get a living, and the wholesalers wouldn't be able to get much stock if the men with the collecting wagons didn't hustle around the town and bargain with the Mrs. for her collection of newspapers and story magazines.

REPUBLICAN RALLY

The republican rally to be held in the Memorial Auditorium on the night of Oct. 21, will be under the auspices of the Lincoln club. Speakers already secured are Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Governor Channing H. Cox and Congressman John Jacob Rogers.

Thin Blood Causes Aches and Pains

Starved Nerves and Undernourished Muscles Cry Out for the Vital Elements That Can Be Furnished Only Through the Medium of Rich, Red Blood

Pains in the back are often mistaken for symptoms of kidney trouble and cause needless alarm. Doctors know that backache is seldom an indication of diseased kidneys just as pain around the heart is seldom a symptom of organic heart disease. Heart pain generally results from indigestion and most backaches are caused by overworked and undernourished muscles. Build up the blood and the nourishment that the rich, red vital fluid will carry to the muscles and nerves will quickly relieve the pains of lumbago, neuritis, neuralgia and sciatica.

"About three years ago," says Mrs. Emma P. Thomas, of R. D. No. 1, Turner, Maine, "I suffered a general breakdown of my health. The muscles of my back were sore and I was subject to sharp pains as though some one had jabbed a knife into my back. At one time I was confined to bed for nearly three weeks. My appetite was poor and I did not enjoy a mouthful of food. I was tired all the time and if I walked any distance I would be all out of breath. My sleep was disturbed and I was as tired in the morning as when I went to bed."

"I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and as I had heard them praised highly, I gave them a trial. I noticed that the first few helped me and the pain across my back was less severe so I continued to use the pills. Soon I could get up and down without that terrible cutting pain. My appetite became better and I grew stronger. Now I eat heartily and my stomach does not bother me at all. My nerves are stronger and I sleep well. I believe that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best blood builder anyone can use and I am glad to recommend them to others."

After Effects of Influenza

Influenza often leaves its victims with a thin blood, a condition which doctors call "anemia" and it is a very strength until the blood is built up. To do this a tonic is required and the difficult matter to regain health and experience of Mrs. Margaret G. Murdock of No. 7 Dowse street, Everett, Mass., will be of benefit to others. She says:

"An attack of the 'flu' left me a nervous wreck. My blood was in poor condition and I ached all over. I had no strength at all and I could not get upstairs without getting all out of breath. My appetite was poor and I had no energy. My complexion was sallow and I had brown spots on my arms."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., on receipt of price, 50 cents per box. Send for the free booklet, "Building Up the Blood."—Adv.

SALE AND PRICE OF COAL

Lowell Coal Dealers Oppose Government Operation of Coal Sales Business

Lowell coal merchants have been warned of a movement started in legislative quarters in Washington tending to encourage and perpetuate government operation of retail functions in respect to coal and similar commodities of commerce.

Local dealers in the various grades of hard and soft coal are now trying to ascertain just how far the campaign for government control of coal-selling has really gone, but to date nothing of a very definite nature has come to the offices of coal merchants or agents of coal operators, some of whose headquarters are located elsewhere.

Local coal dealers who follow the moves of the organization known as the "National Retail Coal Merchants' association," are encouraged by the recent action of that body following the fifth annual convention, which was held in Chicago.

Declaring most emphatically that "the distribution of coal by the government is not an appropriate governmental function," the merchant's association has affirmed its opposition to any proposals tending to encourage or perpetuate government operation of retail functions in respect to coal and other commodities of commerce.

The Lowell dealers are in full accord with this resolution.

Several investigations of the government fuel yard in the District of Columbia have been made at the instance of the national association of coal merchants and the results have been most favorable to the government. The yard's cost to the charge for similar service by Washington dealers in past years, the taxpayers have lost from 40 cents to $1.47 per ton on every ton delivered. Comparing the government fuel yard's real cost to the offer of dealers for similar service made in good faith and based on sound economic reason, the taxpayers this year will lose about 75 cents on every ton delivered by the government fuel yard, or $150,000 annually.

In either case this government fuel yard as a delivery function is a dead loss to the taxpayers, it is claimed. Therefore, the coal dealers say that the distribution of coal by the government is not an appropriate governmental function and adds to the price of coal delivered to the consumer.

Lowell coal dealers are now in receipt of these findings, some of which are given by The Sun today by a local merchant, who said that all dealers in the city and vicinity would fight any proposition looking to government control of coal sales "to the last ditch," whatever that means.

TAKING ORDERS FOR HARD COAL

Talbot mills company is taking orders from employees for hard coal in an effort to help out the fuel situation in Billerica. All deliveries will be made subject to the state's emergency regulations now in effect and also under the direction of the Billerica fuel administrator. Treasurer or Clark of the mills states that the company has an order for anthracite already in and expects an early shipment. Very little hard coal has reached Billerica since the opening of the strike.

"I doctored for months without benefit and was worse than ever when one of my friends told me of a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before I had taken the last of that first box I noticed that I slept better and my nerves were more quiet. Before I had finished the third box I was stronger and my appetite was good. During the time I had suffered a great deal from backache and this left me, entirely. Since I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I have a good color, have gained in strength, my nerves are stronger and I sleep fine. I am certainly pleased with the benefit I have received from the use of this pill and I have recommended them to many, among them my sister who has found them an excellent remedy."

Rheumatic Pains Alleviated

Science has discovered that by increasing the blood rich in oxygen the poisons of rheumatism can be driven out, or burned up. The way to increase oxygen in the blood is to increase the corpuscles that carry the oxygen and this can be done with certainty by proper treatment.

Mrs. Margaret Breen, who lives at No. 41 Beacon street, Cambridge, Mass., speaks from experience when she says that rheumatic poisons can be driven from the system for she was once a sufferer from this disease and owes her present good health to the treatment that she recommends to others. She says:

"I had rheumatism for over a year and suffered intense pain in my shoulders and in my limbs. I also had headaches that were so severe that my eyesight seemed affected. I was very weak, could hardly walk at times and was almost unable to get out of bed. I tried treatments but did not get any better until I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. AMUSEMENT NOTES

You won't be able to beat the bill that will be on parade at the B. F. Keith theatre tomorrow. It will be a highly interesting one from start to finish, with Al and Fanny Stedman in their piano act, and with the Beaumont Sisters, giving their choicest songs of other days. Then Joseph K. Watson will discuss in a mysterious fashion, and Lewis and Norton will give some of their finest chatter. Olga and Alan Parado, singer and pianist, will add not a little to the bill. Jones & Coolidge, in songs and chatter, and Tilly May, a singer, will also be on the day's bill.

For the coming week page Katoushka, a Russian, who will give a scene in a Russian village, assisted by five noted Russian artists. This is an out-cropping of "Chevre Souris" which has caused such a furore in New York. These players came from Moscow with the original "Chevre Souris" players, and what they give is a very close picture of the sensational success which all New York clamored to see for many months. It is a veritable triumph.

Back to us will come Sandy Shaw, the eminent Scottish comedian, with his own repertoire. Shaw has an unusually well developed sense of humor, and a keen flair for characterization. He knows the Scottish characters perfectly, and in his songs and dialect he is sure to give no end of pleasure, whether one possesses a smack of Scottish blood or not.

Lou Miller and Alice Bradford in a bit of musical comedy novelty called "Typical, Typical Tales." This is an hour of vaudeville entertainment. They have good voices, and a splendid idea of what audiences want. Inasmuch as they are trained and true performers in their line, they are sure to make a pronounced hit.

Mildred Reed and Harold Selman in "On the Roof," have a rich bill with songs called "On the Roof." It affords good opportunity for songs and dances. The twins are a clever couple, who do many things. Jack and John, the Thompson Sisters will give "A Musical Threesome," and the Medleys, who know balancing and athletics, will present "In the Moonlight." Then and Arthur Keeley will offer a comedy diversion which will please.

Opera House: Girls! Clever comedians! A cartoon of scenery! A wardrobe unexcelled! And an atmosphere that will find appreciation in all lovers of graciously good stage entertainment. All combine in making the opening attraction at the Opera House all next week an assured treat for all. Tommy Levene and P. Q. Murray's big musical production—the "Old U Baby"—has scored such a tremendous hit on Broadway in the past, will be the attraction of the best bits of musical comedy creations that the stage has to offer this season. Owner Schanitz was obliged to extra go to expense and resort to special measures in order to secure this engagement at such an early date. It's popularity has made it one of the "best sellers" of the year and the local management was obliged to go into the open market and bid high for its appearance here. Knowing full well that theatre folk of this community have a thorough appreciation for the best in any line of stage entertainment, Mr. Schanitz didn't hesitate a minute in booking up this big production and naturally expects that the patrons will turn out in large numbers during the coming engagement, which begins Monday night and continues twice daily thereafter.

There are 35 people in the cast, including a beauty chorus of Broadway stars, whose cleverness, personification and exquisite wardrobe places it in a class with the very best. Messrs. Levene and Murray are easily the best comedians in their line on the stage today. They are assisted by several other stage favorites, both men and women, and their combined efforts make for a wonderfully good, strong musical creation.

As an added attraction, that will help make the offering of exceptional strength, will be Drake's Shuffle Along Jazz band. This organization of musicians are too well known to need more than passing comment. Their program includes some of the best musical jazz efforts of the year, and introduces something real new in their special line.

"Pickles" for the week's engagement are now selling at the Central street entrance. Better make your reservations at once, particularly for the opening performance Monday night. The prices are: Matinees, 15c, 25c and 35c; nights, 25c, 35c and 50c, with a few reserved seats at 75 cents.

RIALTO THEATRE
Excellent Double Feature Program at the Rialto Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—Good Sunday Program.
A double feature program which carries a stirring human interest plot and a thrilling story of western life is the offering of the Rialto theatre for Monday and Tuesday of the coming week. The first is a stirring photodrama of parental sacrifice entitled "Ashamed of Parents" with an all star cast, and the second introduces Neil Hart in a story of Texas cattle struggles, entitled "Rangland." An episode of "In the Days of Buffalo Bill," and comedy "No Vacancies" and the Pathé News and Review, complete the program.

"Ashamed of Parents" is the story of a young college man who almost broke his father's heart because he feared to divulge his humble origin to a pretty society girl. The young man feared he would lose the girl's love if he made known the fact that his father was a mere collier, and his natural fear leads to many interesting complications. It is a story that carries a

Strand Will Observe Its Fifth Anniversary by Program of Unusual Worth and Excellence
Five years ago the coming week The Strand listed among the best equipped and most modern picture playhouses of New England, opened. Patrons may recall the event when people from all parts of this community crowded the spacious amusement centre to the doors. It was an occasion long to be remembered in theatrical annals of Lowell.

Manager Samuel Torgan believes it fitting to observe the fifth birthday anniversary of the theatre in a manner that will reflect again the outstanding fact that The Strand is "bigger and better" by arranging a program of unusual worth and excellence, and thus make the occasion one that will help retain in the minds of picture patrons of the district that this theatre still holds the premiership hereabouts. Manager Torgan is going to make the week's birthday anniversary a regular picture party for all. Sunday's program will have select vaudeville and photoplays headed by Richard Warwick in "The Man of the Hour."

For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday he has secured for presentation, an adaptation of Lincoln Carter's famous melodramatic success, "The Fast Mail," unquestionably the most stirring and thrilling picture offering of the year. Then Gladys Walton, "the greatest star and the story, but we believe it proper to have you enjoy a full measure of both by seeing this picture offering. Suffice to say that this bewitching little star never appeared to better advantage.

Only a cast of utmost brilliance would suffice for such a picture drama as "What's Wrong With Women," the big feature for the last three days of the week. Look over the cast and judge for yourself. Wilton Lackaye, Constance Bennett, Barbara Castleton, Montague Love, Mrs. DeWolf Hopper, Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, Baby Helen Rowland, Paul McAllister, Rod La Rocque and others of equal note. So much for the cast. Now for the picture. It's the kind that will make every one who sees it think—and think hard. Never before in novel, stage or screen has that modern drama of ever-changing emotions—the woman of today—been pictured so realistically in all of her strength and weakness as in "What's Wrong With Women." It is in no sense an attack upon woman-kind—it is a bold, honest and bare reflection of what she is, and a crushing indictment to the forces of folly, hypocrisy and extravagance. You mustn't miss this treat.

"The Sage Brush Trail" is a brand new type of western play with an all star cast including Roy Stewart, John Walker, Marjorie Day and others. It's a good balance to the other big feature. A comedy and Weekly will round out the prize picture program for many a day.

WHY LODGE SHOULD BE BEATEN

It is stated, and nobody will deny, that Senator Lodge is an able man, an orator, a writer and a scholar of distinction. But these brilliant accomplishments count for nothing so far as Massachusetts is concerned unless they are used to promote the interests of her industries and the welfare of her people.

Let us here bring forward a case in which Senator Lodge has plainly neglected the interests of this commonwealth in allowing the port of Boston to be grossly discriminated against by the railroads in the matter of shipments of goods for export. For many years, the great railroads of the country have been discriminating against the port of Boston by charging higher rates for shipments to Boston than to other ports more distant. To those who have not given the subject any particular attention, it will seem strange that the railroads should discriminate against the port of Boston in such a way that exporters sending wheat from Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, Omaha, Kansas City, Peoria, Buffalo, Toledo, Indianapolis and many other cities equally distant, find that it costs them more to send their shipments through the port of Boston than through Philadelphia or Baltimore, although in many cases the distance to Boston is less than that to the other ports mentioned and although Boston is nearer to Europe than either of the others. The matter of distance does not seem to rule the price on export business from Chicago, for example, Boston is at a disadvantage as compared with Montreal, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk, Newport News, Charleston, Savannah, Brunswick and Gulf ports. Here is a single example that indicates the extent and the injustice of the discrimination against the port of Boston for export business. The distance from Cleveland to Boston is 682 miles and from Cleveland to New Orleans 1092 miles, yet the rate on first class goods is 5½ cents higher from Cleveland to Boston than from Cleveland to New Orleans. There is a double discrimination in a higher rate for a much shorter distance.

Is it any wonder then that the port of Boston is practically dead and that one of the finest of her docks is used as a general office for the registration of motor vehicles? As a result of this discrimination, even the merchants of New England find it more profitable to ship through more distant ports than Boston. There were formerly large shipments of grain and flour through the port of Boston, but they go elsewhere now. Even the products of our New England factories when shipped abroad are sent in large measure through other ports than Boston because of the differential imposed by the railroad companies. Even Boston exporters find it financially advantageous to ship through other ports.

Here then is a clear case in which Senator Lodge has been negligent of the interests of Massachusetts in allowing any discrimination of this kind to be practised against Boston. He could have stopped it if he had fought as hard against it as he fought for republican victory or even for the seating of Newberry, the boodle senator of Michigan.

The movement to have the discrimination against the port of Boston removed is led not by Senator Lodge but by the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Had Mr. Lodge devoted less time to the working of the republican political machine and more to the interests of Massachusetts, he could have prevented these trade shackles from being fastened on Boston and the Bay State. But the scholar in politics was otherwise engaged, with the result that the port of Boston is dead and we are told that New England is losing its industrial supremacy, and may soon be outdone by the south and the middle west. In addition to being farther from the coal mines and the cotton fields, our industries have to meet the discrimination in freight rates which is simply outrageous. Yet our senior senator with his thirty-five years' experience has allowed this state of affairs to grow more serious from year to year without forcing action to put a stop to it, something that was well within his senatorial duties and his political powers.

Only this morning came the announcement by the Cunard Steamship company that the passenger service to Boston will have to be dropped unless the ships can find cargoes of exports on their return trips. This is a climax that threatens to complete the destruction of Boston as a commercial port and to reduce the city to the status of a mere summer resort celebrated only for its historic traditions.

Whether the Interstate Commerce Commission will grant relief as a result of the hearings now in progress at the state house in Boston is entirely uncertain, but if any such relief be granted, it will be only over the combined opposition of all the favored ports. These ports secured advantages through their senators and congressmen while our senior senator who is recognized as the republican leader allowed the interests of Boston and of New England to be sacrificed to those of other ports and other competing districts farther south on the Atlantic seaboard.

If there was no other reason for urging the defeat of Senator Lodge, this alone should be sufficient and it is one of the main reasons why Col. William A. Gaston, a man who more than any other in New England has protested against this discrimination in railroad rates should be elected to the United States senate in order to promote the industrial and commercial interests of Boston and all New England.

SPELLING BEES

Spelling bees are becoming popular. This form of amusement and instruction in an art that is fast losing ground among Americans, received a great impetus at the Syracuse, N. Y., fair last month when a spelling bee was conducted before the governor by pupils of the public schools.

City dwellers whose memories travel back to the early days of the little country schoolhouses where farmers and their wives gathered to debate the spelling of the English language, as well as those who put "spelling bees" in a class with comic opera, will sit up and take notice when they hear that the New York county spelling contests which are being held throughout the rural districts of the state are narrowing down to county champions, who will now compete in a state championship match. While the contests are confined to children, the elders take just as much interest in them as in the old days when they were "champions."

Bay State educational leaders are watching the "bees" in our neighboring states with more than passing interest this year, for we are told that Massachusetts may inaugurate state-wide contests of a similar nature in 1923. It would be work of a very profitable sort indeed if the stories regarding the spelling bees held in other states can be relied upon.

Americans are notoriously "bad spellers," as we are assured by editors and educators. The English language has many difficulties in its spelling as a result of the various sources from which it is derived, together with the tendency to simplicity and phonetic spelling as a matter of convenience. It would help to create a new interest in the art of spelling to have a few public spelling bees in every city of the state, offering a prize, to be open to all comers.

THAT HARVEY STORY

Press dispatches from London have it that Colonel George Harvey, the American ambassador to the Court of St. James, has publicly indicated that the United States would join Great Britain in the event of war with the Turks. The truth of the report has been denied at the White House and the state department at Washington, but nothing has been heard from the colonel about the published statement.

Washington, of course, "voices the opinion" that Mr. Harvey uttered no such statement as that attributed to him, and indications are that the matter will go no further. But did Harvey make any such statement? It would seem an easy matter to secure a prompt and official denial from the colonel himself if Washington desired to do so. In the meantime, England believes the story, for English newspaper readers saw it in black type and have seen no denial as yet.

Harvey has made a few bad breaks as minister to Great Britain and he may make others, although we should think that the reprinting he received on the last occasion would have made him more careful. President Gompers allows that the labor unions have triumphed over all the efforts to destroy them. Yet some strikes are unsettled and some unions are disorganized. But the cautious labor is impregnable and the right of employees to organize legitimately for their own protection can never be destroyed while the American constitution endures.

WOMEN IN POLITICS

Radcliffe college is to start a school of politics for women but most women will pick up their knowledge of politics from practical experience, which, after all, may be better than some of the college schools that deal in theories alone. There seems to be very little attention paid of late to the principles of the American constitution, which lays down the rights of the states as distinguished from those of the federal government. It seems that many of the prominent women of the country are behind some of the bureaucratic movements now favored in Washington including the care of children, education and various other functions of government that rightly belong to the state. It is therefore, important that this large class of new voters called upon to deal with such measures, should understand fully the necessity of opposing these bureaucratic movements conducted by certain well organized minorities at Washington. Women who are charitably disposed are liable to be misled into joining these movements that while having a praiseworthy object, adopt methods that are clearly opposed to the American system of government and inconsistent with state rights.

In the present election, there is little doubt that most of the women will do their full duty by voting the democratic ticket.

BOSTON'S WAR MEMORIAL

Boston has under consideration a memorial to her heroes to cost about $2,000,000. It is to be on an island to be built in the Charles river at the Harvard bridge on Massachusetts avenue. The island is to be ten acres in area and the memorial building as planned is to have a high tower with a powerful chime of bells. This would certainly be a great undertaking. It is proposed to build a great large outdoor auditorium, to be used for purposes in harmony with the memorial idea, but this structure would not be included in the $2,000,000 appropriation which would be used for the main structure, with the tower and fine architectural fronts. It is proposed also to construct an esplanade and eventually to make the island accessible to the public as a marine park. This would undoubtedly prove a very attractive memorial, but not so much of a public utility as the Lowell Memorial Auditorium.

POST 185, G. A. R. MOVES

The veterans of Post 185, G. A. R., are now comfortably located in their new home in the Memorial Auditorium. While it has been to them a source of delight to realize that the city has provided such comfortable quarters for them, still they recalled many pleasant memories on leaving their old quarters in which they had enjoyed so many happy occasions and entertained so many distinguished guests. But they realize that the new quarters will afford more comfort and convenience than any they have ever occupied. They will have no climbing of stairs to reach their hall and whenever any body of veterans needs Liberty hall, it will be at their disposal. Every patriotic citizen of Lowell will feel gratified that the veterans will have such comfortable quarters in which to spend their leisure hours.

EUROPEAN WAR CLOUDS

The divergence between France and England, it persisted in, means a realignment of the powers of Europe similar to that which existed before the war in the triple alliance and the triple entente. Turkey is already on the side of France, and if England finds it necessary she will join forces with either Germany or Russia, or perhaps both. This is what the world is to see instead of an era of universal peace, which might naturally be expected following the greatest war in its history.

The eastern railroads with which we are chiefly concerned in Massachusetts stand firmly against taking back the striking shopmen except as new employees. The men stand out, however, against the surrender of their seniority rights and are not likely to yield. Most of them have found employment elsewhere and with the increased demand for machinists and other experts in metal trades, the strikers are likely to find steady employment at wages fully equal to those paid by the railroads.

Unthinking people who feel that coal of the right kind is coming freely into Lowell and is being "stared," had better accept the invitation of the local dealers to visit their yards and be convinced. No coal dealer would store coal these days, with the demand ever increasing and prices likely to remain at top notch.

The Vermont hotel men are to hold a reunion soon. It ought to be a joyous one this year, if reports from the recreation centers up that way came down to us correctly. And those county fairs helped along the Green Mountain State's prosperous season, too, beyond a doubt.

Why should Mayor Brown be so much exercised over the matter of Plan B going on the ballot in November? If another election should come to break his two-year term, he will have an equal chance with the other candidates, and it is said, that possession is nine points of the law.

Governor Miller will also discover later on that the mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly small. "Al" Smith's platform has a number of very special points that are appealing to New York state voters this year.

Scotch whisky is reported in such demand in Scotland that not more than 50 per cent of the orders can be filled. It is shipped to Canada and then bootlegged to the United States.

We are now having an exhibition extraordinary of municipal Opera Bouffe. If the performance is kept up, some of the alienists may question the sanity of the city.

For a man who is scoffed at by certain republican leaders as an ignoramus, Henry Ford can teach them all something in home economics.

Although it is a little late in the season, the Mayflower appears to be popular still, especially upon the front pages.

Though the police seize a dozen stills, still the other stills work on.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

In England consumers now pay for gas by the "therm," a unit of heat value, instead of by cubic foot. When this "reform" was suggested, it sounded logical to the public, especially as a protection against having air pumped into the mains. But when they go to pay their bills are higher by the therm system than the old way. That seems to be the way with most "reforms." In solving one problem we usually create a bigger one—or a whole flock of new ones.

Major Edward J. Noyes, an ex-mayor and a member of the G. A. R., is of the opinion that the American flag should fly to the breeze in front of the Memorial Auditorium every day. The major says the flag poles were set up there for only one purpose and that is to fly the colors. "It seems to me, he continued, 'that it would be an easy matter for one of the employees of the building to raise the colors at sunrise and lower them at sunset.' The major feels that the building, which was erected to the memory of the veterans, in a patriotic hiding and should be regarded as such. The flying of the colors at the front entrance of the building, he said, would impress those who pass the edifice. He believes that the trustees should instruct the caretaker of the building to raise and lower the colors morning and night and every day in the week.

Dr. Charles Cross of San Francisco tells a medical convention that a painful ailment known as "automobile foot" is caused by motorists keeping their feet on the accelerator. This starts a diseased area or lesion, at the second toe.

Work on the laying of new sidewalks abutting the high school is progressing rapidly and in a short time granite tiles will be laid on Kirk street. At present the city men are busy tearing up the old concrete sidewalks in order to have a bed for the new. These will begin at the junction of Kirk and Merrimack streets, on the school side of the street, and continue to the end of the school buildings. Cables for the proper lighting of the street are being laid and in a recent conference held at Mr. Harris and Percy J. Wilson of the Electric Light Co. assurance was given that the work of properly lighting the street would be rushed through as quickly as possible.

A few days ago an announcement was made in the columns concerning a window display of a local shoe store and the result it had on an out-of-towner, who sent word all the way from St. Augustine, Fla. ordering two pairs of house slippers which he had seen advertised in the display windows of a shoe store in Central street, this city. The out-of-towner had been requested and shortly received an answer, letter from the St. Augustine, with an additional order.

Strange though it may appear the chamber of commerce rooms yesterday had several inquiries relative to the advisability of adopting German marks as an investment. The answer given left no doubt that none of the officials of the chamber would care to invest in the worthless marks. They are now trying to find out if a second Ponzé is trying to swindle an unsuspecting people.

WILL HAVE TO TRIM SIDEWALK CORNERS

According to City Engineer Stephen Kearney, several sidewalk corners will have to be cut off in order to lay out the new loop for the electric cars which will run through French, Brookings and Taige streets. Those corners will have to be rounded off so that there will be ample room for passing automobiles and other vehicles as an electric car is swinging into the loop. The changes will be made at the junction of French and Bridge streets, French and Brookings streets, and Brookings and Taige streets. It will not be necessary to make any changes at the intersection of French and Brookings streets as they are sufficiently wide at that point.

Work of laying an asphalt concrete roadway on upper Moody street, which has been under way for several weeks, was completed yesterday. The men who have been working there will be transferred to Mammoth road next Monday where they will begin work on the road there.

TURN IN THE FEES

As a result of the city council's unanimous acceptance this morning of an ordinance presented by Mayor Daniel W. Mahoney, Tax Collector Robert R. Cassill, Jr., will be required after ten days from now to turn into the city treasury instead of into his own pocket, all fees, charges, commissions and penalties collected by him. The ordinance was passed under the suspension of rules requiring that such matters be tabled for a period of at least a week, the motions for the acceptance of the ordinance and the suspension of rules being offered by Alderman Edward C. Callahan. The time at which the ordinance becomes effective is governed by provisions of the city charter, the requirement being that ordinances shall become effective ten days after passage. Action on the passage of the ordinance was prompted by recent articles in The Lowell Sun pointing out the large amount of money which the tax collector has been getting in addition to his salary of $2600 per year.—Lawrence Telegram.

SEEN AND HEARD

He who hustles has no time for envy.

People take it for granted that a good-natured man can't get angry, and great is the occasional surprise.

Blessed is the man who puts his whole heart into his task, for at the end of the day his work will sing to him.

There's something the matter with the fellow who can't get a full measure of enjoyment out of a perfect October day in the woods.

If the closing of Worthen street would increase congestion in Dutton street for the love of goodness don't close it.

Didn't Dare To

The lawyer was firing questions at the unfortunate witness with machine-gun-like rapidity. "You are a proper citizen, aren't you?" "Started or single?" "I have been married many years, sir." "Have you formed or expressed any opinion on this question?" "Not for five years, sir."

Today's Word

Today's word is exhumed. It's pronounced—eks-hewm—with accent on the last syllable. It means—to dig up, to remove a body from place of burial, to disinter. It comes from—Latin "ex," out of, and "humus," ground. Common use of exhumation. It's used like this—"When murder is suspected, it is customary to exhumate the body of the person supposed to have been slain."

Average Conductor

"Wait for the car to stop, and don't get on until it does stop!" yelled the conductor of an open surface car to a woman making desperate efforts to get aboard as the car slowed slightly at a corner. "Well, why doesn't it stop?" yelled the woman as the car rolled on and again made off over the crossing. "Well, why didn't you jump on?" the conductor yelled back.

A Thought

If one were to give me a dish of sand, tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might dig for it. One day I met a man with my clumsy fingers and was unable to detect them, but let me take a magnet through it, and next day I would draw to itself the most valuable particles. The unthankful hand, like my finger in the sand, discovers no morsel but let the thankful heart sweep through the day, as the magnet finds the iron, so it will find in every hour some heavenly blessing; only the iron sand is gold.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Tough Apology

A philanthropic woman visited an asylum not long ago and displayed great interest in the inmates. One of her particular favorites was a woman named "And how long have you been here, my man?" she inquired. "Twelve years," was the answer. "Do they treat you well?" "Yes." After addressing a few more questions to him the visitor passed on. She noticed a man sitting on the floor and did as requested and shortly received an answer, letter from the St. Augustine, with an additional order.

The Money Finder

He had not been married long, and when he realized that money does not go as far as it did at first, he determined to grow his own vegetables. He started to dig up the garden and after half an hour's hard work was satisfied to find a half-dollar at his feet. He dug with renewed ardor and several coins rewarded his efforts. This must be a money mine, he said, digging away for all he was worth. "I wonder what I'll find next." His arms ached and his back ached and down his face, sweat was streaming. He straightened his back at last and a glinting coin fell at his feet. In moments he had grasped the truth. There was a hole in his trousers pocket.

The Sealers of Newfoundland

Ho! we be the Sealers of Newfoundland!
We clear from a snowy shore,
Out into the gale with our steam and sail,
Where tempest and tumult roar.
We battle the foe as we northward go,
Through lead, from a frozen strand!
North, lead, through lead, we battle
We Sealers of Newfoundland!

Yes, we be the Sealers of Newfoundland!
We laugh at the blinding dark;
We mock the wind, as we fling behind
The wilderness roar and clank.
We just as much, at the far breath
Of the Pole, by the north-lights spanned.
In a hard death-dance we die with a chance.
We Sealers of Newfoundland!

Sealers, be Sealers of Newfoundland,
With engines begreined and rackered,
With groaning beams where the blue
ice gleams,
We push through the growlers packed,
With rifle and knife we press our strife.
What lubber light understand!
The ice flows red where our skin-hoofed tread.

And crimson the gleaming flees,
From mast we "scum" till our race be run.
Where the Labrador current goes,
From ship we spring to the pans that swing;
By starboard our deck is manned,
O'er the blood-red road the sculps are towed.
By the Sealers of Newfoundland!

Oh, some may sail with a southern gale;
Some may fare east or west,
The North is ours, where the white
storm towers,
Wild North that we love the best!
Oh North, we ken that ye make us men!

Your glory our eyes have scanned,
Hard men we be, of the Frozen Sea,
We Sealers of Newfoundland!
Bitterly bold through the stinging cold
We vanquished the naked North,
We make our kill with an iron will,
Where the great white cold stalks forth.

"Onward!" we cry, where the bare bergs lie,
Dauntless our course is planned,
With blood, with sweat, scant bread
we get,
We Sealers of Newfoundland!
"Starboard" and "Steady!" and "Port!"
we steer;
Press through the grinding pan,
We labor and muck for a fling at luck.

Each man of us, God! a man!
We cheer at the bawl of the white-coats all,
We labor with knife and hand
With rope and gaff, At the North we strive,
We Sealers of Newfoundland!

Where the old dog-hood and the old lie out on the rattlered rack,
We tally our prey. Then away and away,
Men, for the homeward track!
Till the day dawns next when a welcome cheer
Shall greet us, as red we stand
On the decks that come to our island home,
We Sealers of Newfoundland!
By George Allan England.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

WINNERS

The folks we call "Successes"; what's the secret that they know?
What sort of magic food is it that makes them flourish so?
There isn't any secret which you cannot figure out,
Nor any strange enchantment which is rigging them about;
For when you come to study them the answer's quickly guessed,
They worked a little harder and they planned a little better
And they dreamed a little truer
Than the rest.

They weren't afraid of drudgery when drudgery was wanted,
They faced the little grimy jobs with spirit quite undaunted,
They didn't like that sort of task, they didn't find it fun,
But they kept grinding at it till they knew that it was done;
And thus their strength and courage grew to meet each larger test,
They plugged a little harder, and they toiled a little longer,
And they thought a little clearer
Than the rest.

A little more of effort and a little more of stress,
Would often alter failure into glorious success,
But the failure blames misfortune for his lack of fame and pelf,
He blames the times, he blames his job—but never blames himself;
Yet the secret of the folks who win is easily expressed,
They fight a little harder, and they act a little quicker,
And they stick a little longer
Than the rest!

SUMMARY OF EARLY COUSINS FOUND GUILTY MORNING A. P. NEWS

Convicted of Wife's Murder — Sentenced to Life Imprisonment

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 7.—Samuel Lane Cousins was convicted of the murder of his wife on April 17, at the home of her parents at Westbrook, late yesterday in the superior court. The jury was out three-quarters of an hour. He was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state prison at Thomaston.

Cousins was placed on trial Tuesday for firing two fatal shots at her, then beating her head with the butt of the revolver. His counsel entered a plea of not guilty by reason of insanity, though he had been found to be sane after several months' observation at the state hospital at Augusta.

The shooting followed a separation of five weeks, for which Cousins blamed Mrs. Elton Morton, his mother-in-law, and almost immediately after the return of Cousins from the hospital he had sent to his wife the night before Easter Sunday. They had been married a little less than two years.

The closing argument of Harry E. Nixon was interrupted twice by the sobs of the client while he was outlining the relations of the couple, particularly when he declared Cousins loved his wife and would have died for her.

He pictured the mental battle Cousins experienced when his mother-in-law caused their separation and his wife refused to have him return to her, particularly when he declared Cousins loved his wife and would have died for her.

Attorney General Bangsford W. Shaw, in closing for the state, branded Cousins as a "bold braggart." He belittled the testimony offered by the defense, of the delirious and nervous mania he was said to have suffered four years ago in Merrimack, Mass.

He declared the word "passion" should be substituted for Cousins' "alleged love" for his wife. He argued that, if it had been love that held them together, the interference of her mother would not have had sufficient weight to separate them. He declared the defense had not shown Cousins did not know the difference between right and wrong when he killed her.

WHIST AND SOCIAL

The first annual whist and social under the auspices of the Lowell Yacht club took place Thursday evening in the club rooms, 58 Middle street and was largely attended. The early part of the evening was taken up with entertainment numbers, which were provided for by Cecil M. Pelton, Miss Gladys Walton, Mrs. Hudson, Bertman and Frank Goss. Whist was played and prizes were awarded the winners. The committee in charge consisted of Ernest C. Penland, chairman; Frank Goss, Harry Barrows, Alfred Clayton and John Kershaw.

Rain Breaks Drought and Hot Spell

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—New England's second summer, which has reigned since the advent of October, was broken today by a cool northwest wind and rain. During the last six days the heat wave has shattered all October records. A slight rainfall last night broke a drought that was in its 20th day, establishing a record dry period for this time of year. Weather bureau officials said. The longest drought in the bureau's annals came in February, 1877, when there was no precipitation for 24 days.

WILL TALK ON FIRE PROTECTION

Members of the fire department have been designated by Chief Edward P. Saunders to speak in the grammar and parochial schools in the city on "Fire Protection." These talks will be given on next Monday, with the exception of the Varian school, where the talk was given yesterday.

The following men will speak at the different schools: Capt. Edward J. P. Cunningham, Butler school; James W. Carter, Sacred Heart and Silverdale schools; William Christy, Edison and St. Peter's schools; Capt. James A. Shea, Coburn school; Capt. William S. Abbott, Forey and Washington schools; Lieut. Charles F. Stucke, Lincoln school; J. J. McLaughlin, Moody school; J. J. McLaughlin, Immaculate Conception school; J. W. Gray, St. Michael's school; Capt. H. A. Merrill, Greenhalge and Varian schools; Lieut. W. J. McHugh, Pawtucket school; Lieut. J. J. Whelan, Bartlett school; J. M. Hogan, Green school.

she lives. If one is to judge by the business she is doing, she is living even better than that for her large corps of help is kept busy every day cleaning and dyeing clothes, and that is because she does good work at low prices. Her establishment is at 637 Merrimack street.

MANY LIVES LOST AS RESULT OF FIRES

According to a conservative estimate at least 15,000 persons lost their lives in the United States last year as the result of fires. Considerably more than this number were seriously injured from the same cause.

When we are told that most of those killed and injured were women and children, that they were sacrificed because of carelessness and that this toll is increasing each year, we realize that some definite steps should be taken to halt the destruction.

From a humane standpoint, therefore, if for no other, it is the duty of every sane person to exercise particular care to prevent fires. Furthermore, it is his duty to know what to do when he discovers that a fire has started. Many lives and much property would be saved annually if the person who first saw the fire had known how to call quickly for proper assistance.

By this time Stony was furiously mad and he swung wildly at Jack. His blows went astray, however, as Jack ducked cleverly. Then Jack delivered a quick punch and Stony went down.

ance. We all realize that the first few minutes after the fire starts is the most important time in which to fight it. Today fire alarm boxes are placed at convenient locations. These boxes are of little value unless the person needing to use them is acquainted with their location and the proper method of sounding an alarm. Although most alarm boxes are easy to operate, many persons have no idea of how this should be done. Everyone should make it his business to learn the location of the nearest fire alarm box and how to use it. He should further see that others of his family are acquainted with these facts. It is advisable, furthermore, to impart this information to all school children so that they fully understand what to do and how. Merchants, manufacturers and other business organizations will find it to their advantage to see that every employee has this knowledge. It is impossible to determine who will be called upon to sound the next alarm. All should be prepared. A further important consideration relative to the saving of lives is the proper method of emptying a burning building of its occupants. Where a large number of persons are assembled in one building such as a school, a public institution or a factory, it is advisable that fire drills be held. Arrangements should be made to conduct such drills at irregular intervals, so that the occupants will obtain the habit of answering the alarm whenever it is sounded. The frequency of these tests will depend upon the type of building and the number of persons occupying it. Experience has shown that employees and school children become interested in fire drills. They are anxious to do their part in establishing a time record for emptying their building or department. The drill will acquaint everyone of the proper exit to be used and will also assure an orderly clearance in the case of an actual fire. The present week, which is being observed as Fire Prevention Week, presents an excellent opportunity for teaching the use of the fire alarm box and for initiating fire drills.

KEITH'S MARKET

"JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES"

Jack took off his cap while Stony was rushing out of his coat. Then the fight started. The boys battled carefully for a few minutes, feeling each other out. Bill looked on.

By this time Stony was furiously mad and he swung wildly at Jack. His blows went astray, however, as Jack ducked cleverly. Then Jack delivered a quick punch and Stony went down.

Suddenly Jack shot out his right fist and caught Stony square in the nose. Then he feinted with his left and slipped over another blow that fairly amazed Stony.

It was easy to see that Jack knew too much about boxing for Stony. "I've had enough," shouted Jack's victim. "You sure can fight, young fellow, and I quit." Continued.

WOMEN AFTER MORE SEATS IN PARLIAMENT

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The women of England are preparing an intense campaign with a view to securing more women members of parliament. They are quite satisfied with Lady Astor and Mrs. Wintlingham, but they want more women in the house of commons to keep these two from feeling lonesome. They have now formed a committee to embrace all parties—except the communists. They call it the women's election committee. They are raising a central fund, too, to help women candidates. Anyone who sends along more than a pound can have it earmarked for the support of a candidate for any particular party. The Duchess of Atholl has her eye on a seat and although her aristocratic friends are trying to dissuade her from engaging in an electoral contest, it is understood she is preparing to stand for the parliamentary vacancy that will occur if the expected promotion of the lord advocate to the Scottish bench takes place.

TAD JONES DISMISSES 11 YALE MEN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 7.—In cutting down the Yale varsity football squad during the past fortnight, 11 men have been eliminated by Head Coach T. A. D. Jones for low standing in their studies. It became known today that most of those dropped were members of last year's championship freshman team. The action of Mr. Jones is in accord with his recently announced policy of not allowing ineligible students to take part in any football work.

The action of Head Coach Jones was endorsed today by the Yale Alumni Weekly, which said that the step was not a surprise to those who had known Jones for some time.

The Alumni Weekly further says: "The whole question of scholarship standing for athletes is capable, we think, of such an interpretation by those in charge of undergraduate sports. The freshman athlete who does not care enough about his own education to do his class room work and who does not take his responsibility to his varsity captain seriously enough to become eligible for the 'varsity team,' isn't open to much sympathy. Colliding athletes who do not keep up their college work, is poor business for all concerned."

The Weekly said that it took courage on Jones' part to take the "unprecedented step" which he took and that he lays himself open to criticism at a later date should things not go well with the team.

"We feel sure," says the Weekly, "that the graduate body will stand back of the coach in his move to better football morale."

INQUIRY TO GO INTO MILLS OR HALL FAMILY

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 7.—John E. Tolan, assistant prosecutor of Middlesex county, when pressed today by newspapermen to the progress made in solving the murder of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Elvira R. Mills, said:

"It looks mighty like the inquiry will go into the Mills or Hall family. Somewhere in one of them there is the man who appears to know more than has been told."

"Mrs. Hall has not reacted naturally. She has shown no interest in her husband's death, but instead has gone into seclusion and will see no one."

RESUME CONFERENCE AT MUDANIA

MUDANIA, Oct. 7.—(By the Associated Press) The session of the conference here were resumed at 8 o'clock this morning.

Owing to the lateness of the arrival of the British instructions from home no formal session was held last evening, but the allied generals conferred late into the night.

The session this morning opened amid a feeling of optimism. At the start, Ismet Pasha, the Turkish nationalist representative, immediately sounded a conciliatory note by making the statement that at the time the conference broke up on Thursday, he had not received a copy of the Ankara government's reply to the allied peace proposals.

This reply reached Constantinople from Ankara at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Apparently Ismet, upon receiving the Ankara reply, became convinced that his position in the conference had been considerably at variance with the Ankara position, and that he had demanded more than the Ankara authorities were asking.

In any event, at the opening of today's deliberations his attitude had softened and the whole situation seemed to have become more hopeful.

The allied generals met the Turkish delegates informally last evening, as the hour was late it was mutually decided to postpone the formal discussion to this morning. Last evening's informal conference was entirely harmonious. It was stated, Ismet Pasha said he had just learned the allies had already sent three commissions into Thrace and that this action was greatly appreciated by the nationalists, who saw in it a sincere effort on the part of the allies to protect the property and persons of the Turkish population.

HIGHEST AVERAGE IN EXAMINATION

Yesterday The Sun published a list of eligibles for appointment as investigator of claims for the city of Lowell as given out by the state civil service department, and, while the names were given in the order received from the department, the article was more or less misleading to those who did not thoroughly understand the situation. Take, for example, the name of Miss Elizabeth H. Rivet, of 271 Beacon street. Her name was near the foot of the list, while, as a matter of fact, her standing was the highest of any who took the examination. That her name was near the bottom of the list published yesterday was due to the fact that there were two lists, one for the men and one for the women. Miss Rivet headed the women's list, but the women were put at the foot of the men's list, and that's where the misunderstanding came in. The fact remains, however, that Miss Rivet had the highest average of any of the candidates who took the examination.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Operations of operating speculative forces gave a degree of irregularity to today's stock market, but the ultimate trend was again upward. Week-end profit-taking limited the short interests who centered their attack on shipping shares. Temporary weakness also was noted in Corn Products, Atchafalaya, Norfolk & Western, Associated and Tidewater Oils, American Tobacco, American Car, Pullman and Famous Players, but the list turned upward before noon in response to another demonstration in Standard Oil shares. New Jersey was pushed up 7 1/2 to 22 1/2, a new high record, and gains of 1 1/2 to 4 points were registered by Sinclair, Standard Oil of California, Mexican Petroleum, Ipanema, Gulf States Steel, U. S. Rubber, Kelly-Springfield and Southern Railway common and preferred, the latter at a new top. The close was firm. Sales aggregated over 450,000 shares.

RECORD REGISTRATION AT HARVARD COLLEGE

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 7.—A total registration at Harvard university of 6265 students breaking the previous record of 6025, set last year, was announced today. The college is larger than ever before, with 2716 men enrolled, although the freshman class falls short of the record number that entered in 1921.

For the first time the law school has a registration in excess of 1000, the total being 1011. The graduate school of arts and sciences has 634, the largest figure ever reached at this time of year, and the graduate school of education begins its third year with 218.

The new theological school, formed by affiliation of the Harvard Divinity school and the Andover Theological seminary, has 54 students, as compared with 61 in the divinity school last year. The school of public health begins its first year with 12. The school of landscape architecture, with 15, has nearly doubled in size.

Small increases are noted in the medical, dental and business schools and small decreases in the schools of architecture and engineering; the Bussey Institution of Agriculture and special students under the faculty of arts and sciences.

LAWSON PLANS EARLY REAPPEARANCE

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Thomas W. Lawson, who has been in seclusion some where since announcing the sale of his south shore estate, is apparently planning an early reappearance. His secretary made public today a statement saying that "if the press is interested enough to have me do so, I will notify them of the time, place and conditions under which Mr. Lawson may be interviewed," adding that this was conditional on authority from his chief. It was said that the announcement last night that Mr. Lawson had leased a furnished apartment in the Fenway district for a year had led to a misapprehension. The apartment is intended for his daughter, Mrs. Burgess Allison Edwards, it was explained.

FINED $150 FOR ILLEGAL KEEPING OF LIQUOR

In this morning's session of the district court, Jacob Luz, who was charged with illegal keeping, changed his plea to guilty and was fined $150. Jacob was the second member of the Luz family to appear in court on a liquor charge and Judge Enright warned him that if any other member of the family was brought in on this charge he would receive direct sentence to jail. Luz was arrested on Sept. 15 at his home on Gorham street where the officers found a subterranean cellar where the outlaw liquor was being manufactured. This underground cellar was heavily barred with walls and doors of solid cement and it was necessary for the officers to hack their way in with crowbars and axes. Upon their entrance they found a large sized still in operation, several barrels of mash and a quantity of moonshine. In a shack behind the dwelling house the officers also found several barrels of liquor buried in the ground. Luz was tending the still at the time of the raid and was taken to the police station where he was booked on the charge of illegal keeping.

NARROW ESCAPE BUT NO ONE INJURED

A Studebaker automobile bearing the Massachusetts registration, 306,776, crashed into the railing of the School street bridge last evening and, although the machine was badly damaged, no one was injured. As far as could be learned, there were four men in the car and in some way the driver lost control of the machine, which swerved on to the sidewalk into the railing. The front wheels of the auto dropped over the side of the bridge, but the heavy machine was held back by the rear wheels, which became caught in the fence. The automobile was recently registered, but the identity of the owner cannot be established at present because the revised list of registrations has not yet been published. There are 65,000 miles of canals in India.

Adventures of the Twins

TWELVE TOES PLANTS TO WRECK TWINS' CAR ON MILKY WAY

IT GREW TO THE SKY IN A LONG, STRONG, GREEN VINE

Twelve Toes planted a magic bean and instantly it grew to the sky in a long, strong, green vine exactly like the one Jack the Giant Killer climbed. "There now," he said to Light Fingers, "scramble up as fast as you can. But wait a minute. Here are some very funny tacks. Put them in your pocket and scatter them along the Milky Way. "When the Twins come along in the automobile, that I wish to have for my own—pop! bang! all their tires will blow up and they will have to top. "Then you jump in and bring the automobile to me at once." Light Fingers grinned. "Yes, sir! I'll do all you say, sir. If here's anything I like to hear, it's his blowing up. They make such a nice noise." Light Fingers put the tacks in his pocket and started to climb. The bean stalk was high and strong and pretty soon he'd passed the clouds.

Up, he went—up and up and up. Next he passed the Moon and waved a howdy to Mr. Peaboddy, the Moon Man. Up he went—up and up and up and up, and by and by he came to the Milky Way. He stepped off the magic bean stalk which disappeared instantly, then he stood shading his eyes with his hand and looking this way and that to see if there was any sign of the Twins. By and by he heard a sound. "gr. gr. gr. chug, chug, chug," away off in the distance. "Here they come," he chuckled, sticking his long fingers into his pockets and pulling out the sharp tacks. "I'll just sprinkle these around now, then wait behind that funny little house I see over there. "When their tires blow up the Twins will get out to see what's wrong. Then I'll push them off the Milky Way, and fix the tires, and take the magic automobile back to Twelve Toes." (To Be Continued.)

try and luxury which comes to those who are successful in catching the attention of the Gray White Way. Rosalie Lawrence finds her hope for happiness in the love of Hugh Thompson, whose parents are wealthy and of the socially elite. Rosalie discovers, however, that the passage from Broadway to Fifth Avenue is not easily accomplished. The Thompsons have other plans for their son. Marriage with a Broadway dancer is not included in their social code. They have already picked out the wife for their son in Barbara Royce, a debutante of their own set. And so Rosalie consents to a secret marriage in order that there may be no break with her parents.

The results of this step involve Rosalie in a series of stirring incidents which threaten her with disaster but she eventually finds happiness.

Supporting Miss Murray is a cast of unusual excellence containing such well known players as Monte Blue, Ward Crane, Ray Blomere, Alma Tell and Mrs. Jennings. The producers of "Broadway Rose" have not been content to rest on the laurels of the previous productions. They aimed to surpass and have succeeded in surpassing the high standards which were set in those productions.

LOWELL SETS THE PACE AN INSPIRING RECITAL

Galli-Curci Concert Receipts
Set New Mark for New England
Thousands Hear Beautiful
Voice of Galli-Curci at
Memorial Auditorium

Madame Galli-Curci received the sum of five thousand seven hundred thirteen dollars and forty cents for her concert in Memorial Auditorium Friday evening. A draft on a New York bank was obtained for that amount Saturday morning at the Lowell Trust company by John L. Donovan and delivered to Lawrence Evans, her manager.

Under the terms of the contract Madame Galli-Curci was to receive seventy percent of the gross receipts with the provision that she must receive a minimum of three thousand dollars. This provision is inserted in the contract to protect Madame from suffering from inexperienced managers. The total gross receipts were $5,163 and probably set a new mark for New England. Mr. Evans said that the receipts from Symphony hall, Boston, always go over $5,000.

Mr. Donovan's share of the gross receipts was $2,445.60. He is obliged to pay all expenses from his share. The personal expenses of Madame and her party are borne by her manager, but every other expense is borne by the local manager. Under the contract it was impossible for Mr. Donovan to give a ticket away without paying for it. He was also forbidden to make radio connections for the concert.

Madame Galli-Curci and her party left Lowell this noon for Boston. Mr. Donovan arranged with Capt. Joseph Molloy to drive them over the road. Before leaving she expressed great pleasure with the responsiveness of her Lowell audience. She also said that she thought the acoustic properties of the Auditorium were the best in the country. Mr. Berenguer and Mr. Evans agreed with her. Mr. Samuels thought that the acoustics of the Memorial Auditorium in Cleveland were as fine.

Madame expressed the hope that she might be asked to return to Lowell some time. After her manager finished checking up the house with Mr. Donovan in the wee small hours of the morning they came to an agreement about a date in the future. It will probably be two years from now. For next season Mr. Evans offered Mr. Donovan his choice of three New England cities where Madame wished to go.

Mr. Blackwell of the firm of architects who designed the Auditorium attended the concert. He met Madame after it and they exchanged felicitations on their combination efforts which made the evening so nearly perfect. Lowell fares better than other cities in the matter of ticket prices. In both of these cities where Madame sang, this week the top price was set at five dollars. The price of the three dollars was written into the Lowell contract. Mr. Donovan has been very frank in the management of the concert, for he showed the contract to representatives of all the newspapers as well as Mr. Boulger of the trustees. In correcting misunderstanding he also has shown a statement of Mr. Huser of the Chicago Company wherein he accepted and assumed full responsibility for the entire set of tickets for the concert. Every ticket purchased by out-of-town people was bought from Chaffoux's through the mail.

The concert was the twenty-first major one managed by John L. Donovan. He has managed six concerts by Fritz Kreisler, six by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, two by Fiedla Hemple and single concerts by the Chautauque Quartet, the Homer, Alma, Schuman, Farkas, Julian, Clauson, Geraldine Farkas, Sergei Rachmaninoff, and Arthur Middleton. With four permanent assistants this season he will present Jascha Heifetz, Sophie Braslau, Reinold Werrenth, and the Boston Symphony in Lawrence and Geraldine Farkas, Fritz Kreisler, and Rachmaninoff in both Lowell and Lynn.

Madame Galli-Curci gave every proof of her ability as a skilled artist. She added about a dozen in the future. It will probably be two years from now. For next season Mr. Evans offered Mr. Donovan his choice of three New England cities where Madame wished to go.

The city mortality rate again increased a point this week, when 22 deaths were reported. The rate is 13.82, against 12.79 for the week ending October 2, 1922. Deaths under five years this week were nine, while there were eight under one year. Infectious diseases reported were diphtheria one, scarlet fever three, typhoid fever one, tuberculosis seven and influenza one.

Building Up Your Reserve Strength
How to Store Up Fighting Power to Resist Disease
Take Father John's Medicine

If you are strong and well your system has a reserve supply of fighting energy to draw on whenever you are exposed to colds or other disease germs, and this energy enables you to throw off and overcome the disease.

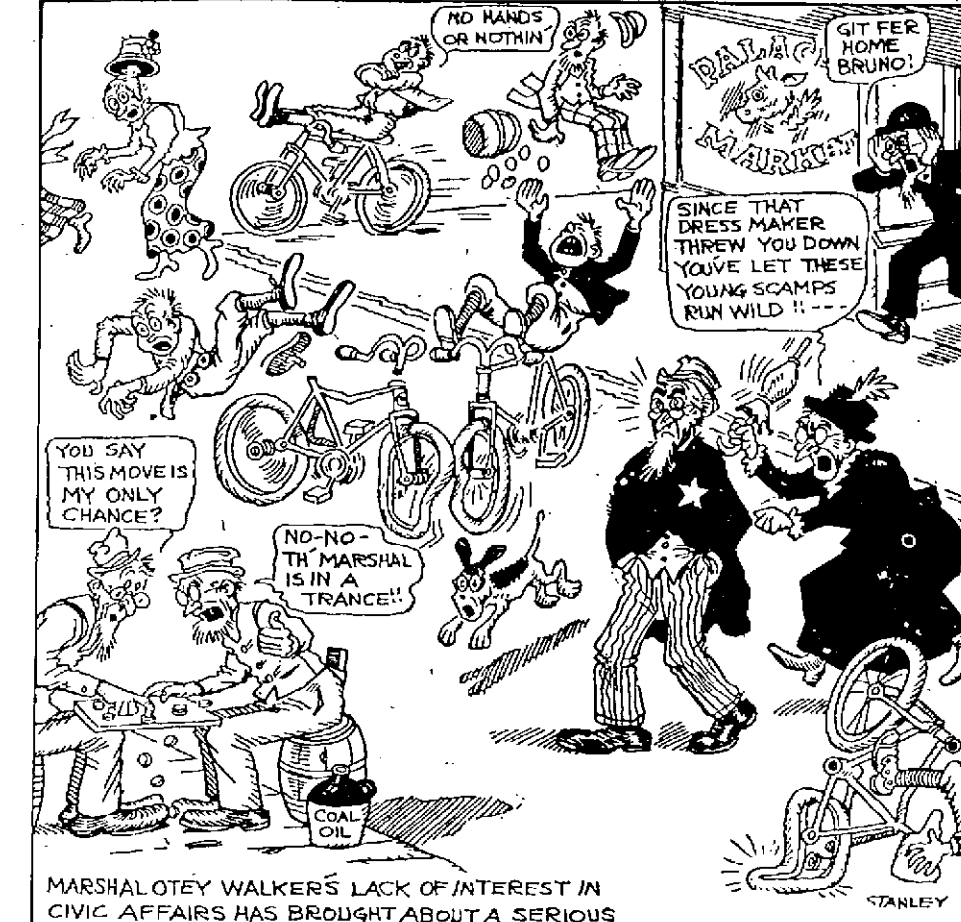

But if you find that you are tired, weak or run down in health this reserve supply has been exhausted and unless you can replace it at once you are in danger. Because it supplies the food substances which produce strength and enable you to withstand fatigue and hardship, Father John's Medicine is the commonsense tonic, energy-builder for you to take right now. It is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs. It is not a stimulant but a nourishing, flesh-builder by means of which the system stores up energy to be drawn on whenever it is needed.

AUTUMN PARTY AND DANCE IN DRACUT

The first big preliminary event in connection with the coming of the carnival was conducted last night, by the Santa Maria committee of Centerville in the form of an autumn party and dance, held in the Grange hall, Dracut Centre. Townspeople who were present voted it the largest crowd that had ever attended a similar affair in that hall, every available space being occupied. A musical entertainment was furnished early in the evening, followed by general dancing until midnight. Refreshments were served at intermission, ice cream, cake and candy being disposed of in large quantities. The great railway accommodations operated extra cars.

The men and women directly responsible for the evening's success are as follows: George F. Keefe, chairman; John Flannery, Patrick Flannery, John E. Hart, George McKenna, John Sargent, Thomas Donnelly, John Donnelly, Richard Costello, Thomas O'Brien, John Sullivan, James Riley, Edward Scully, Mrs. John Coughlin, Mrs. Everett Gaffney, and the Misses Mary Gallagher, Winifred Hart, Rose Nickerson and Anna Callery.

CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Polish Falcons of Lowell
Plan Drive for Gymnasium Fund
More Liquor Law Violators
Arraigned and Fined
Other Cases

On October 16 the Polish Falcons of Lowell are to launch a drive for funds for the erection and equipment of a modern gymnasium in their present quarters, 133 Lakewood avenue, for the purpose of caring for the athletic needs of their increasing membership. The Falcons are a comparatively new organization in this city but have advanced rapidly in recent years. Most notable among their achievements of late is the establishment of an Americanization class for foreign-born residents, presided over by competent instructors and doing unlimited good among that element, not only to their own personal advantage, but in the interest of the city, the state and the country as well.

Prunella Zacharar has been appointed chairman of a publicity committee and plans extensive newspaper and other advertising in view of the fact that the majority of Lowell citizens are not acquainted with the aims and objects of Falconry. At present the chairman is preparing a circular which will be distributed to the business men of the city in an effort to secure their patronage. The first circular to be sent out states that there is much said of criminal offences and lawlessness among foreign-born in large American cities, and there is certainly no denial to be offered. But every unprejudiced American is invited to spend a small amount of time in visiting to various big communities in America to find out for himself the unflattering statistics. He will find that the smallest percentage of lawlessness is found in the country's laws are recorded among Polish inhabitants, where there are few Polish cities existing. This is due to better supervision of the members of Falconry by their executive committee than can be exercised by any other Polish organization in America.

To be a Falcon, a man, a Pole, must be a tested gentleman of honorable conduct in every walk of life. By the training afforded at a Falcon's gymnasium, a young man becomes healthy, bold and level-minded, and also a valuable asset to the country. The local committee, explained Mr. Zacharar, is anxious to make the Lowell branch of the Falcons one of the biggest in the country and for this reason the coming drive for a gymnasium will be conducted with earnest consideration to every detail.
